

DRYS CHALLENGED TO NATION-WIDE REFERENDUM

CLOSE COUNT EXPECTED IN MANY FIGHTSUnusual Interest Has Been Shown in Com-

With the primary election at hand a great deal of interest is being manifested in the various angles of the big day when we go to the polls and exercise our right of franchise. Several of the contest are so close as to puzzle the expert observers and speculation as to the result is rife, whatever that is.

The only contest on the Democratic ticket is for minority representative, with John P. Devine and Angler Wilson sparring for the place on the Democratic ticket. The Telegraph's forecast is that Devine, because of his high standing among the Democrats as a party leader and his long record in the house, will be returned to Springfield, although Mr. Wilson, a relative of the late "Jim" Wilson, famous democratic chieftain in Illinois in other days, will make a creditable showing. Mr. Wilson, successful farmer and automobile dealer, is a man of standing in this community and has connections over the state which make his candidacy formidable enough to create some interest in the Democratic primary.

G. O. P. Contest Thriller.

The Republican primary will be a four-reel thriller with many casualties and bloody scenes. Only two or three offices in the entire list are uncontested.

The harassed voter, gaining the sanctuary of the voting booth, and grasping the stubby pencil at the end of a string, must first decide between William B. McKinley and Frank L. Smith for United States Senator. Col. Smith is given the best end of the betting and will carry this district and probably the nomination, although there are indications of some reaction toward McKinley during the past two weeks.

Next come four candidates for state treasurer, but only two of them, Garrett D. Kinney of Peoria and William J. Stratton of Lake County need cause concern, as the others will not figure in the final. Mr. Crawford of Mendota would have interested Lee county voters had he remained in the race, but his withdrawal eliminates him.

Stratton got into the race a little late, but his legion of friends over the state are counter-acting that and we believe he should carry Lee county.

Francis Blair has no opposition for Superintendent of Public Instruction. Charles W. Valle should win over Ulysses G. Lee for Clerk of the Supreme Court because of his wider acquaintance with the public.

Rathbone and Yates.

Of the six candidates for Representative in Congress, State-at-Large, Henry R. Rathbone and Richard Yates will probably bring home the smoked side-meat as usual. Some local interest attaches itself to this contest because of the candidacy of Harvey Sindlinger, a former Dixtonite, who is running on a wet platform.

Justus L. Johnson should defeat Elmer Armstrong for clerk of the appellate court in the second district.

The congressional battle in this district wages hot and a number of elements affect it, but the indications are that Lee county will favor Wm. H. Johnson of Freeport, the present congressman, over Solon W. Crowell of Oregon. The Congressman has the advantage of the public's normal inclination to let a man have a good fair trial in office before deciding his rating and Johnson's performance during the short period he has occupied his seat in Washington has indicated a value to the district. Congressman McKenzie, his predecessor, has thrown the weight of his endorsement behind Congressman Johnson.

Deuces Are Wild.

Here's a high spot in the campaign. For Representative in the General Assembly we have before us a clamorous multitude asking to be nominated. There are six in all, exclusive of the two on the Democratic ticket. DeKalb county offers Alvin Warren, and due to the fact that he has no opposition in his own county, and also because of his known ability and good standing, he seems likely to be nominated. There are two to be selected, and the other member will come from either Lee or Whiteside counties. With Lee county having a candidate for Senator and supposing that Lee county's claim will be recognized, it might be expected that Whiteside should have the other member of the house. But Whiteside county has endangered her standing in this county and has failed to make the best advantage of her opportunity.

FINE CATTLE ON BRUNDAGE'S
FARM SAVED FROM FIRE WHICH DESTROYED BARN AT MIDNIGHTHeroism of Supt. and His Son Saved Pure
Bred Jerseys

La Roche Verte Farm, the country estate lying just north of Grand Detour, and belonging to former Attorney General Edward J. Brundage, suffered a severe loss last night about 12 o'clock, in the destruction of the fine new and modern dairy barn just completed last year. About forty pure bred Jersey cattle were housed in this barn, many of which were imported animals, and constituting one of the finest herds in the country. Through the heroism of C. L. Coburn, the farm superintendent, and his son, who entered the burning building at the risk of their lives, all but five of these animals were released from the stanchions and driven out, the barn collapsing immediately thereafter. Adjoining farm buildings were saved through the efforts of the farm force and neighbors who had learned of the fire by telephone. This farm is one of the most modern and best equipped tracts of land in the Rock River Valley, and the loss of this herd would have been a distinct loss to the community.

President and Two Members of Board
Elected Tomorrow

The annual election for members of the board of education of district No. 170 will be held Saturday, April 10, in the South Side High School building. The polls will be open from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock p. m.

The candidates on the ticket are A. W. Leland for president, F. K. Tribon and Sherwood Dixon for members to serve three years, two to be elected, and Frank Suter for member to serve one year. These are the only petitions that have been filed.

Dutch New Guinea Party
Reached East India Port

Sourabaya, Dutch East Indies, April 9.—(AP)—The steamer Fomalhaut, having on board the expedition headed by Prof. Stirling of Berkeley, Calif., arrived here this morning. The airplane of the expedition was placed aboard and the steamer left for Macassar, Celebes, at noon.

The expedition is to explore the unknown parts of Dutch New Guinea, particularly in an endeavor to find traces of pigmy tribes.

Pettenger Home Scene of Threatening Blaze

Crossed wires on the second floor at the James Pettenger home, 902 North Galena avenue, caused a fire which threatened to destroy the home, which is just outside the city limits this morning at 9 o'clock. Chemicals were rushed to the scene of the fire from the fire department and the blaze extinguished.

NOTORIOUS BANDIT DEAD

Jefferson City, Mo.—April 9.—(AP)—David "Cockey" Bartlett, 30, one of the most notorious convicts in the Missouri penitentiary who had a record of slaying a guard and escaping several times, died in the penitentiary hospital of pneumonia.

MUMMY WILL BE ON EXHIBITION
ON NORTH SIDEMany Questions Concerning Past Will be Answered

Do mummies have mumps? Are they afflicted with d'seases? Do they eat sour pickles? Do they speak seventeen languages or remain silent, as the tomb from which they come? These questions and many others are to be answered tonight and tomorrow evening at the kindergarten hall at the north central school a 8 o'clock by the members of the senior class of the north side high school.

The play is mystifying, thrilling and full of humorous situations; those who find excitement too much for a weak heart and those who have found laughter a poison instead of a tonic, are warned not to attend.

The seniors who act in this play are the same group that made "Am I Intruding" such a success. This group is above the average in ability and willingness to work for the success of the play. Their production will be worth the while of the most critical of theater goers. The cast of characters, setting and business personnel follows:

Cast in order of Appearance

Agatha Laidlow, head of exclusive school..... Rachael Kennedy

Ell Laidlow, Agatha's nephew.....

Maude Mullen, an eastern girl..... Lytle Prescott

EDITOR BARRED MAGAZINE WILL SEEK A HEARING

However, He Says All
Copies of Periodical are Out

New York, April 9.—(AP)—With the April issue of the American Mercury officially barred from the mails after it had been mailed, Henry L. Mencken, the editor, is seeking a hearing on the matter. He successfully defended charges of impropriety made in Boston against an article entitled "Hat-rack" appearing in the issue.

Postal officials at Washington took action yesterday after the Farmington, Mo., Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution asking Postmaster General New to bar the magazine. The town is the setting for the article of which Herbert Asbury, New York newspaperman, is the author. He was born and reared in Farmington and is a great-grandson of the late Bishop Asbury. His article deals with small town morals.

Mencken said that the magazine had been submitted to postal authorities prior to mailing and that no complaint had been received. He said he would demand a hearing.

"The magazine cannot be barred from the mails," he said. "As there are no more copies to be mailed. Our regular mailing was on March 25 and since that time all remaining copies have been disposed of in regular news stands sales."

Public Opening New
Ford Display Rooms

The grand opening of the new sales room and stock room at the Netz & Co. Ford Sales and Service garage will take place this evening and tomorrow, with a free dance tonight, and public reception and inspection tomorrow. The room is especially well arranged for the display of automobiles and everyone is invited to attend either this evening or tomorrow.

FRICKER LOST APPEAL

Springfield, Ill., April 9.—(AP)—The supreme court denied the appeal of Emil Fricker, Madison county farmer, sentenced to hang April 16 for the murder of John Nungesser.

EDITORIAL
BETTER SCHOOLS—A BETTER CITY

Tomorrow will demonstrate the attitude of the people of Dixon and nearby territory in the matter of progress on the school question. We presume that by this time all voters have given sufficient thought to the question so that they have decided what their action will be at the polls.

The Telegraph urges, first, that every voter cast a ballot. It is unsatisfactory, no matter what the result, if a question of this importance is carried by a minority. Go to the polls and vote your convictions.

We further urge that support be given to the program for a township high school district. We do this because we believe that the community will benefit thereby. We do not believe that Dixon can continue to grow as it should without improved school conditions and we believe the community owes it to the children to give them the very best school facilities that this modern age affords.

It will cost a little more. Perhaps 11 per cent increase, according to the report of the committee that has been investigating the situation. We believe that the arguments advanced by the school committee are sound and we are sure that they are honest. These earnest men and women who have striven for better school conditions here have no more to gain thereby than any other citizen. There can be no selfish motive behind their action. They are sincere in their efforts to promote the public welfare. We hope they will be rewarded by seeing that the voters have appreciated their work.

There is confusion in the minds of some voters on the question to be voted upon tomorrow. Just remember that if you vote in favor of the township high school district you are not committing yourself on the location of the school or the amount of money to be spent. Those questions would have to be settled at a later election and you will have an opportunity then to declare your choice of locations and how much should be spent.

Vote as you think will be best for the public good.

TWO DEAD, 35 MISSING IN OIL DISASTERS INVOLVING
$18,000,000 PROPERTY LOSSFour Catastrophies in Separated Parts of
of Country

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two persons are dead, 35 are missing and $18,000,000 worth of property has been destroyed in four disasters involving oil ships and properties in two widely separated parts of the country.

Thirty members of the crew of the Dutch steamer Silvanus are missing as a result of a collision with a Standard Oil tanker in the Mississippi river below New Orleans. Five persons were believed to have been killed and more than two score were injured when another Standard Oil tanker exploded at a New Orleans dry dock. The huge property loss was suffered in two oil reservoir fields at San Luis Guspito and Brea, California. The fire in the former field was rated as the greatest petroleum conflagration in the history of the American oil industry, with a probable loss of $15,000,000. Two persons were killed. The loss at Brea was estimated at $3,000,000. Both tank farms were owned by the Union oil company.

Fifteen sailors were rescued from the Silvanus. One of the members brought here said the Silvanus was out nearly in half in the crash. He said the sailors noticed that a large quantity of blazing benzine gave the water a dangerous appearance and that of the 35 on the vessel, but twelve were powerful enough swimmers to clear the burning oil without rising to the surface and each of that number reached shore safely. Several others jumped in and were drowned he believes.

Hope raised at San Luis Obispo today by a favorable change in the wind that remaining seven or eight small tankers of 35,000 barrel capacity each may be saved, stirred little enthusiasm among weary fire fighters who had been beaten back in a steady retreat before the lake of flames. Along the length of the two mile area, consecutive boiling over of the six great storage reservoirs of from 750,000 to 1,250,000 barrels each, and the smaller storage tanks had spread flames that destroyed farm houses and lined of trees from the landscape.

The village of Edna, occupied principally by the 400 employees of the company and their families, remained intact although windows were shattered and there was other evidence of the force of the explosion of the oil containers.

Newspaper Ethics Were Discussed at Congress

Washington, April 9.—(AP)—Newspaper ethics formed the topic for today's deliberations of the Pan-American congress of journalists meeting here to consider the different problems of their profession and its function in the development of understanding and friendship among the 21 American republics.

Senator Glass, Virginia publisher of the Daily News and the Daily Advance of Lynchburg, Josephus Daniels, publisher of the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer, and John A. Fahay of the Worcester, Mass., Post will be speakers.

SUIT TO INVALIDATE STATE
PRIMARY LAW BIGGEST CASE
ON DOCKET FOR APRIL TERMCircuit Court to Hear Arguments During Coming Term

The suit brought by W. J. McAlpine of this city, which Attorneys Dixon & Dixon expect will result in final declaration of the unconstitutionality of the Illinois primary law, is the most important case on the docket for the April term of the Lee County Circuit Court, which will convene Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, with Judge William Emerson of Oregon on the bench.

The suit brought by Mr. McAlpine, a Republican voter of Dixon, is directed against County Clerk Fred Dimick and County Treasurer Chas. Eastman, and seeks to have the court restrain them from paying any expenses for next Tuesday's primary election, the action being definitely based on the action of the Board of Supervisors last June in adding a part of the second precinct in Dixon township to the first. The details of the suit were presented in full by The Telegraph when it was filed, and must be fresh in the minds of the readers. It is expected that the decision of the Lee County Circuit Court, no matter what it is, will finally find its way to the Supreme Court for decision on the validity of the primary law.

Suit Against Lee County.

The second important suit on the docket is the suit brought by Whiteside County against Lee County, in which the former seeks to compel Lee to pay a part of the cost of repairs on the Holland bridge on the Rock Falls road. The bridge, it is said, lies entirely in Whiteside county, and the Lee County Board of Supervisors at its last meeting refused payment of the bill.

The docket shows 139 cases in common law, of which 19 are new, and 131 cases in Chancery, of which 29 are new. Eight new divorce actions have been started.

Catherine vs. Howard Barnhart.
Eugenia vs. Gordon Stanfield.
Alice vs. William Pontius.
Philip vs. Clara Groh.
Marjorie vs. Henry Little.
Ida vs. Robert Haack.
Laura vs. William Tracy.
Mildred vs. Spencer Henderson.

Eccentric Wood Carver
Found Dead in His Home

Chicago, April 9.—(AP)—Surrounded by a number of dead pet pigeons, numerous antiques, and valuable wood carvings, the body of Charles Zintzsch, 60, eccentric wood carver, was found in his home here today. He had been dead several days. The discovery was made by fellow members of the Woodworkers Union who called to investigate a report that Zintzsch was destitute.

The police found $14 which they said disproved a theory that starvation had been forced upon him.

Richard Zintzsch, a brother who is a publisher in Joliet, was notified by the police and said he would come to Chicago today.

Truck Driver Held for Death of Wreck Victim

Danville, Ill., April 9.—(AP)—Ben Hayden, truck driver for a Danville transfer company, is held at Greenup, pending the outcome of an inquest over the body of Christian Finkbinder, of Little Rock, Ark., killed early this morning near Greenup.

Finkbinder was enroute from Buffalo, N. Y., to Little Rock and Hayden was on his way from Columbus, Ill., to Danville, both driving trucks. In passing each other on the highway the Finkbinder truck was overturned.

Workmen Poisoned by Arsenic in Their Tea

Moscow, April 9.—(AP)—Twenty seven workmen have been poisoned by drinking tea from a galvanized tank which, investigation showed, contained arsenic. Seven are dying and the rest are in a critical condition. A plot to poison the entire staff of the factory where the men were employed is suspected.

Held as Blackmailer.

Champaign—Logan Sanford, 19, is being held in jail accused of having attempted to obtain $500 from Professor W. A. Noyes of the University of Illinois by blackmail. He admitted writing a letter demanding that amount and threatening the life of Professor Noyes, but declared it was to have been an April fool joke.

Policeman Rewarded.

Danville, Ill.—The Vermilion County Bankers Association gave Policeman John Dewey of Danville a reward for arresting two men who confessed to attempting to rob a bank at State Line, Ind., several months ago.

Farm Advisor Retained.

Rockford—Charles P. Keltner has been reappointed county farm adviser by the Winnebago County Farm Bureau.

FORMER DIXON
WOMAN DROWNS
SELF IN CANALMrs. Chas. Wadsworth
Ended Life Thursday Afternoon

Mrs. Charles Wadsworth of Sterling, formerly of this city took her own life sometime between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. Thursday, by drowning in the Hennepin canal feeder south of Rock Falls, her self destruction being attributed by her family and friends to despondency over her mental condition, which broke down some time ago.

Mrs. Wadsworth left her home in Sterling about 9 o'clock in the morning, ostensibly to take a walk. She was seen on the street by her husband, but evidently she saw him, also, and turned and retraced her steps toward home, dispelling any fears he might have had. Not until some time later was she missed and then a search was instituted, which ended when her body was identified at the "Whetlock undertaking parlors" in Rock Falls, where it was taken after being found.

Body Found at 2:30

The body was found floating head downward in the canal a short distance south of Rock Falls at about 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon by Officer Fred Jacobs and Howard Rice of Sterling, who had gone to the canal to investigate reports that wild ducks were being illegally shot there.

It developed in the investigation which was instituted after Mrs. Wadsworth's disappearance was reported, that she had been seen in the road in front of the government offices at the canal bank south of the office at about 11 o'clock by two government employees who were taking a barge to Tampico.

Funeral services of the unfortunate woman will be held at her home in Sterling at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

SPANISH WAR
VETS BOOSTING
FOR THE MAJOROrganize Club to Further Tourtellott's
Candidacy

Organization of a club of Spanish War Veterans of the Thirteenth District for the sole purpose of furthering the candidacy of Major A. T. Tourtellott of this city for State Senator at next Tuesday's primary has been announced by members in this city and Sterling, with a large membership. The club declaration to the voters of the district says:

"We take pleasure in endorsing the candidacy of Major A. T. Tourtellott for the office of State Senator. Comrade Tourtellott has the highest standing in Lee county, both as public official, as a soldier and a citizen.

"His public record has shown and proved him to be reliable, honest and dependable, and one who has always given the welfare of the public questions pertaining to his district his earnest support.

"We hope that all ex-Servicemen and citizens will favor Comrade Tourtellott with their support."

Singer Stung on Finger
by Scorpion Sent to Hea

Paris, April 9.—(AP)—Juliana Hasten, a young Argentine singer, has been stung on the finger by a scorpion which was sent her enclosed in a lovely Easter egg.

Mrs. Mastoreta got her fingers all mixed up in her hurry to untie the package. When it was opened out came a dozen foul-smelling scorpions and a small scorpion. The latter stung her on the finger. She reported the incident to the police.

FEDERATION OF LABOR IS BEHIND MOVE"Uprising" is Called a
"Stable, Solid Movement"

Washington, April 9.—(AP)—Challenging the prohibition legends to a showdown at the ballot box on modification of the Volstead Act, spokesmen for the American Federation of Labor told the Senate liquor committee today that the working man wants beer and wine and would be better off if he had them.

Called to the witness stand by the wets, as they named the end of the week allotted to them for presentation of their testimony, a succession of officials of the federation and several of its departments pronounced the present law a failure, declared it favored the rich at the expense of the poor and predicted that a national referendum would show a majority for a change.

Appearing as a witness for the wets and speaking as personal representative of President William Green of the Federation, William Roberts told the committee that "the present uprising of those opposed to the Volstead act is a stable, solid movement."

"I sincerely believe that those who oppose light wines and beers realize that a referendum would declare in favor of a modification of the Volstead act," he said. "If this was not true, why do they fight a referendum so strenuously?"

Mr. Roberts was the first witness for the wets at the fifth day of Senate hearings. The days will begin the presentation of their side next week.

Told of Observations.

Telling of the 30,000 mile trip that he and the late Samuel Gompers made over the country in 1923 and 24 the witness said that "everywhere we went there was plenty of distilled liquor but seldom real beer."

"We found that the homes of people had been turned into breweries and distilleries, which turned out dangerous concoctions that if drunk to any extent would wreck the health of those who drank them," he said. "When asked why they drank such stuff, they said there was nothing else to be obtained and they invariably asked when were members of congress going to realize that the manufacture and sale of beer would make for true temperance. Women as well as men were interested in such questioning."

As time passed, the resentment appeared to grow in intensity as we traveled from coast to coast and from Canada to the Mexican border.

Not Given Publicity

"But the resentment did not find much publicity as newspapers generally supported the Volstead act because the dry element spread its propaganda in every part of the land. The opponents of the act, so far as it prohibited the manufacture of beer and light wine, were only permitted to voice their opposition among their friends and acquaintances."

Calling attention that after Governor Smith of the state signed the bill repealing the state enforcement act he was re-elected by a substantial majority, Mr. Roberts said:

"Give People a Chance"

"That is an evidence of the feeling among the people of the United States and the recent straw vote taken by the newspapers simply emphasizes what occurred in New York state. Give the people a chance to vote on the issue and there is no doubt of the result."

"The wage earner, as well as the people generally, cannot understand how a man can be 'personally wet' and 'politically dry.' The straw vote will awaken men to the fact that they have been misinformed as to the real situation and that it is not necessary for them to straddle the fence."

"Any law that takes away a right is highly objectionable to the American people and fanatical statements so frequently heard and printed increase the resentment against the Volstead Act, and even the 18th amendment itself."

Senator Feed, democrat, Missouri, asked the witness whether the consumption of hard liquor and distilling in the homes would decrease if beer were put on sale.

"I haven't the least doubt of it," Roberts replied.

Not Against Amendment

"Does the American Federation of Labor oppose the 18th Amendment?" asked Senator Harrell, republican, Oklahoma.

"No, it is urging 275 beer," William J. McSorley, president of the Buildings Trade Department of the American Federation of Labor urged amendment of the Volstead act as a matter of justice.

"The rich can get liquor, he said, but the working men cannot get the beer they want."

Found Unconscious in Auto: Bullet in Head

Decatur, Ill., April 9.—(AP)—H. W. McCarrah of Peoria was found unconscious with a bullet wound in his right temple, in an automobile two and one half miles south of here this morning. In his right hand was a revolver.

McCarrah was in a small coupe which had been standing at the side of the road for two or three hours when farmers at 9 o'clock decided to investigate.

VOTERS—ATTENTION.
We in Lee County township have joined with the remainder of the Lee County in disposing of the annual Township Elections and the results are known. The next big task is the choosing of the best men at the primaries and right here at home we have a candidate for Sheriff who is entitled to the support of every law-abiding citizen in his own township and throughout the entire county. A. H. Hill is a good official and lets elect him as the next Sheriff of Lee County. No father, mother or sister will ever regret having helped elect him as Sheriff.

CLOSE COUNT EXPECTED IN MANY FIGHTS

Allen, the present incumbent, with a good record in the house, is opposed by Arthur E. Hamilton, present sheriff of that county. If they come somewhere near dividing their strength equally in that county, as reports indicate, they may kill each other off, leaving second place open to the highest Lee County candidate. Whiteside County is reported to be lacking in sympathy with Lee County's claim for the senatorship, which is not helping either Allen or Hamilton in this county.

If the Whiteside candidates cut in to each other's vote sufficiently to nullify the vote of each one, there is a possibility that one Lee County candidate may develop enough strength to gain the nomination. Three local men are aspirants, J. E. Valle and Arthur G. Harris of Dixon and Earl R. Buck of Franklin Grove. Valle looks like the best bet from this county because of all six candidates in the district he is the only one that has no opposition in his platform and his backing. He is widely advertised as a liberal candidate, favoring light wines and beer and those who support him will, in most instances, give him the advantage of the accumulative vote and plump three for him. Valle will go out of Dixon with a good vote. He is a popular young businessman here and has a good record in public office as City Commissioner for a number of years. He is also quite certain to get a generous support all over the district. The State administration has made no endorsements in the fight for the house.

THE NEIGHBOR—
How cold and wet the lowlands lie,
Beneath the cloak and wooded sky,
How softly beats the welcome rain
Against the glassy window-pane!

There is no sail upon the bay;
We cannot go abroad today,
But, darlings, come and take my hand,
And hear a tale of fairy-land.

The baby's little head shall rest
In quiet on his father's breast,
And mother, if he chance to stir,
Shall sing him songs once sung to her.

Ah, little ones, ye do not fret
Because the garden grass is wet;
To love the rains, when'er they come,
That all day keep your father home.

No fish today the net shall yield;
The happy oxen graze afield;
The thirsty corn will drink its fill,
And louder sing the mountain rill.

Then, darlings, nestle round the hearth;
Ye are the sunshine of the earth.
Your tender eyes so fondly shine,
They bring a welcome rain to mine.
—Bayard Taylor.

Menus for the Family

Breakfast—

Apples, cereal cooked with figs, thin cream, poached eggs on graham toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—

Left-over lamb baked with rice, spinach, orange cake pudding, whole wheat bread, milk, tea.

Dinner—

Broiled porterhouse steak, French fried potatoes, creamed cauliflower, date and orange salad, graham rolls, rice pudding, milk, coffee.

Orange Cake Pudding.

Two cups stale sponge cake crumbs, 1 cup milk, 1 cup orange juice, 1 tablespoon sugar, 3 eggs. The cake should be pulled into coarse crumbs. Combine sugar and grated orange rind. Pour milk over crumbs and add sugar. Beat eggs until very light and stir into first mixture. Add orange juice, mix thoroughly and turn into a buttered baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven for forty minutes or until firm to the touch. Serve warm or cold with or without whipped cream. A boiled custard sauce is good with this pudding.

W. H. M. S. Held Meeting Thursday

The W. H. M. S. of the M. E. church held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. A. H. Nichols, 413 Crawford Ave. on Thursday afternoon Apr. 8th. There was a very good attendance and a good program enjoyed. Mrs. A. D. George sang a beautiful solo "Spring is Coming," accompanied by Mrs. Niles Palmer. Mrs. Willford gave the lesson for the afternoon in a very pleasing and instructive manner. Mrs. Clingman and Mrs. Fordham gave a mite box demonstration entitled "Shakin'." There were no refreshments served and instead the money was put in the mite box fund.

W. C. T. U. to Hold Mass Meeting Monday

The Women's Christian Temperance Union of Dixon will hold a mass meeting for all women and Women's Clubs at the Christian church Monday at 2:30 p. m. Note change in date. Mr. George H. Yule, Northern Dist. Supt. of the Anti-Saloon League will be the speaker. Mr. Yule is well informed on the matter of wet and dry candidates in the coming election and will give plenty of facts as he knows what he is talking about. He is very anxious that every woman in Dixon be present at this meeting. The Women's Christian Union stands squarely back of the prohibition movement and wants every woman to hear the facts as they now are.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

Tack It Up!
"Summer is coming, summer is coming."
I know it, I know it, I know it.
Light again leaf again, life again, love again.
Yes, my wild little poet.
—Tennyson's "The Thistle."

Style
Hand-painted dresses, gloves, hats, scarfs, handkerchiefs, come in spring's cornucopia of fashion. All sorts of snappy, tailored vests for the tailored suit. Vests of linen, pique, and pleated crepe, all the sterner stuffs, these vests are made of.

"Let's Eat!"
A fairly odd little dish for the chafing dish supper of the luncheon is shrimp wiggle. One can shrimp, 1 can tomato soup, pinch o' soda, 1 can peas, 1½ tablespoons flour, 1½ tablespoons butter 1½ cupful milk, salt and pepper. Wash shrimp, cut into three pieces. Heat tomato soup, add soda, peas, shrimp, and cook few minutes. Make white sauce of the butter, flour, milk and seasonings and add just before serving on toast.

Improved Appearance Cause of Comment

Anent the possibilities and virtues of various beautifying requisites, used by the women of today, old and young alike, the Inquiring Reporter came across the following interesting little story:

At the conclusion of a round of bridge recently in one of Dixon's beautiful homes, a discussion arose over the improved and beautiful appearance of Mrs. ——. An intimate friend of the lady whose improved appearance was noticeable to all, imparted to the rest of the party the secret. It seems that Mrs. —— has been using Mello-Glo Preparations. Purposely remembering the name, the Inquiring Reporter inquired at several drug stores, about Mello-Glo. At the White Cross Drug Store, Mr. Campbell, the courteous proprietor, produced a beautiful line of Mello-Glo preparations and Mr. Campbell says these goods will do all that is claimed for them. They are made from a French formula. They embrace a beauty parlor right in your own home, and consist of the Mello-Glo Skin-Tone, Mello-Glo Beauty Cream, Mello-Glo Facial-Tone Powder, and Mello-Glo Rouge. The women of Dixon and vicinity are always interested in that which will enhance natural beauty and charm and the name Mello-Glo is alluring enough in itself to the merits of the preparations of other merits of the preparations of that name.

ed without the occasional fling. He wouldn't consent to move into a cheaper flat. His children must have the right environment.

"When he died, there wasn't a penny."

"I thought things through," she told us. "I was glad the children were too young to have caught the modern ideas of what children must have."

"I could do one of two things. Continue to accept the same standard which my husband had insisted upon. Struggle and sweat and toil to give my children 'things.' Become careless of debts. Be a four-flusher. Give my youth and any beauty of spirit, or—"

"I could dare go back to the standard and taught me by my simple parents who lived in a day when simple living was referred to debt. I could have a little peace in my life. Teach my children contentment and how to do for themselves."

"I decided the latter. The next step was to figure just how and where. One day, jokingly, a friend of my husband's who is a power in this railroad company said to me, 'Grace, you keep saying you want a job. The company's starting a cafeteria for our workmen out near Blank where we're building a new station. It's country, two miles from the nearest small town. We need a cafeteria manager. You've been a housekeeper. You know that stuff. I can pay you $75 a month and meals for the three of you.'

"I drove out with him and tried to find a house. Not a thing. We passed this empty old box car and Bobby said, 'Oh, mother, wouldn't it be fun to live in a box car house?'

"I had my idea. They thought it terrible, but they gave me the car. You see what I've done with it. The children love it. Bobby makes things for the house, and Marie loves to cook in what she calls 'the funny kitchen.'

"I can almost bank that clear $75 each month. My friends pity me and think it terrible for me to bring up my children like this, but—"

After we had gone, the young niece in the party said, "Aunt Cynthia, isn't it terrible for people to live like that?"

I looked at the niece, alarmed. When I was aged 12 my idea of heaven was to live in "a funny place"—a house boat, a box car, a house in a tree.

I remembered what the box car lady had said—

"Glad that the children were too young to have caught the modern ideas of what they must have."

Brands snatched from the burning—and how much more to be envied than the average today's child, destined for a life of worry about paying for "things" it thinks it must have!

Legion Auxiliary Met in Legion Hall

The American Legion Auxiliary, Dixon Post No. 12, met in regular session Wednesday afternoon in Legion hall, with a very good attendance.

The usual order of business was observed. The members were saddened by the death of Wm. H. Lenox, Mrs. Lenox being a charter member of the Auxiliary, a loyal worker and at present holds the office of secretary.

Easter Greetings from the Department President were read, also a national membership bulletin. The big objective of the Legion and Auxiliary this year is for one million members.

The Easter committee reported sending to the World War Orphans at Normal, Ill., fifty-eight pounds of home made candy and three large picture scrap books, one of over four hundred pages was made entirely by little Miss Mary Jane Preston; also twenty-one cartons of cigarettes sent to the World War boys at the Elgin sanatorium.

An invitation from the Sterling Unit to attend a luncheon May 8th was accepted. Madge Grove Dargon, Dept. Pres. will be the guest of the Sterling Auxiliary at this time.

The chair of Junior vice president, being vacant, Mrs. Heffley was elected to fill the office for the remainder of the year. The president read a very pleasing report of the work done by the unit for the first quarter of the year.

Mr. Rorer of the Dixon Theater is assisting the Auxiliary with two beautiful pictures, "Sandy" April 12 and 13, and "His Secretary," April 14 and 15. Tickets may be purchased at the Fallstrom Flower shop.

Cavalleria Rusticana Sunday Dixon Theatre

Dear Evening Telegraph:

Through your medium, I am personally calling upon opera and music lovers, not to overlook the date of Sunday, April 11th, at 3 p. m. sharp, at the Dixon Theatre. At this time the Grand Opera, "Cavalleria Rusticana," an opera with the most appealing and beautiful melodies, will be given. It is all Italian music, a very dramatic composition, vivid in coloring and lovely to the eye. I have spent months in preparation and those taking part have worked hard, with me to make the production a success.

The Easter chorus alone is worth traveling miles to hear. As the plot of the opera is laid on Easter day, it should appeal to all at this season of the year. The public has a very slight conception of the immense amount of effort and time it requires for artistic presentation of high class music.

I hope our work will meet with generous support. As regular picture prices prevail, it is within everybody's reach to enjoy an afternoon of rare music.

INDEPENDENCE ANNIVERSARY.

One hundred fifty years of independence will be celebrated in the United States this year. Coincident with this celebration will be appropriate ceremony upon the 100th anniversary of death of Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence.

It was a peculiar coincidence that Jefferson's passing was on July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the signing of the declaration. John Adams who was a member of the committee appointed to prepare the declaration, died on the same day. Adams at the hour of his passing said, "Jefferson still lives." But Jefferson then was gone.

The United States senate has adopted a joint resolution authorizing congress to establish a body to be known as the bicentennial of American independence and the Thomas Jefferson centennial commission of the United States.

To establish a suitable memorial for Jefferson, the Thomas Jefferson memorial foundation has been formed. It has acquired Monticello, the home designed and built on a hill near Charlottesville, Va.

To Monticello pilgrimages were made for fifteen years after Jefferson retired the presidency. As host to these delegations seeking help and inspiration he literally impoverished himself. As many as a hundred beds were prepared for guests of one night.

The congressional commission is to make necessary preparation for a national celebration to be held July 4 this year, in observance of the 150th anniversary of signing of the Declaration of Independence and the 100th anniversary of the death of its author.

Jefferson's view concerning the colonies and the mother country first were written in what was called a Summary Statement, which he took to the Philadelphia convention two years before independence. The time was not ripe for its adoption. A declaration concerning the slave trade was stricken in deference to South Carolina and Georgia. Conservatives to the north were allowed other concessions, and finally little was left of the Jefferson document.

However, the seed was sown, and when a later convention appointed a committee to draw a declaration of independence, Jefferson's name was at the top in the balloting. Associated with him were Dr. Benjamin Franklin of Pennsylvania and John Adams of Massachusetts. Immediately it was conceded that Jefferson should draw the document. This he did. He submitted the copy to Franklin and Adams, and each made short interlineations. The general structure was not disturbed.

By this time the colonists as a whole were ready for adoption of Jefferson's views.

Had this Virginian rendered no other service to the nation, his place in history would have been secure. On the 150th anniversary of the adoption of the declaration the people of this nation well may study the works of Thomas Jefferson, the sage of Monticello.

BUDD DOBLE, HORSEMAN DIES.

Budd Doble, whose name is familiar to all patrons of horse races a quarter of a century ago, died in California, aged 85. He was a driver when horse racing was the greatest of the nation's sports. He was older than his friend, "Pop" Geers, who "died in the harness" one and a half years ago.

Doble's first notable achievement was in 1867, when he drove Dexter to a record of 2:17. Thereby he established a new world's record. When the pneumatic sulky took the place of the high-wheeled one, new records were made all along the line of horse classifications.

In the notable race between Nancy Blanks and Allerton, which drew governors, railroad presidents and sportsmen from the ends of the country to the kite-shaped track at Independence, Ia., in the early 90s, Doble and C. W. Williams were the drivers. Doble and Nancy Hanks took the large end of the purse, which was $10,000, a huge sum in those days.

Later Doble established a new world's record with Nancy Hanks at 2:04.

When Williams moved his stable to Galesburg he quit racing, but Doble, Geers and McHenry went on. Doble retired from the turf twenty years ago.

THE MONEY ON THE WALL

"I'm sorry I can't afford to paper the dining room this year for Mrs. Cracknuts," apologized the fairman.

"Excuse me for a minute, please," said Mrs. Cracknuts, the squirrel lady, busting out of her parlor to get the rent money.

"Just sit down! Sit down!" said Daddy Cracknuts, hospitably motioning the visitors toward chairs with his hand.

Mister Tingaling, the fairy landlord, sat down in the green plush chair, and Nick sat down in the red plush chair and Nancy sat down in the blue plush chair. Daddy himself sat down in his old easy chair and filled his pipe.

"I'm sorry I can't afford to paper the dining room this year for Mrs. Cracknuts," apologized the fairman. "I'm sorry it's all brown in spots from the maple syrup that has soaked through the walls. But that's the trouble with maple-tree apartments—especially in the spring."

"Yes, I know," nodded Daddy Cracknuts. "But don't worry, sir! Women are too fussy. It doesn't bother me one bit what kind of paper is on the walls of the dining room. The only thing that worries me is the kind of food that is on the table of the dining room. And the squirrel gentleman laughed and laughed at his own joke.

Mister Tingaling looked at his watch uneasily. Time was going and there was no sign of Mrs. Cracknuts returning. Could it be that she could not find the dollar for the rent money?

But just then in rushed that lady herself. "Oh, dear! Oh, dear me! Gracious, goodness, mercy on us, land alive!" she cried. "Somebody has done something dreadful! Just come and see! It's right out in the dining room. Oh, dear me!"

"Out rushed Mister Tingaling and at his heels were Nancy and Nick and Daddy Cracknuts.

"Look!" cried Mrs. Cracknuts. "Look! Someone has pasted my dol-

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

THE FINISHING TOUCH

Even when, soon after, Madame Seria introduced me to Mr. Tremaine and graciously consented to chaperon me at dinner that night, I did not suspect anything.

Of course I knew that Lola Lawrence did not come to the shop any more and that Mr. Tremaine and Miss Lawrence had broken with each other. I knew that Mr. Tremaine liked Madame Seria very much, consequently there seemed nothing out of place when he invited us to dinner.

As soon as Mr. Tremaine left the shop, Madame asked me if I had a pretty evening frock. I told her that I did not have one, pretty or otherwise.

We went into the large room where the stock was kept and she looked the dresses over critically. She finally picked out a gorgeous black velvet dinner dress, very décolleté. I had worn that dress once for Lola Lawrence and Mr. Tremaine had been with her and I remember feeling perfectly naked.

Madame, however, seemed to think it was all right, for she said: "I think, Mame, this with that ermine wrap will look lovely on you and I'll lend it to you for the evening, my dear."

"Dear Madame Seria," I said tremblingly. "I know it is perfectly sweet of you to deck me out so wonderfully but I wouldn't feel at all comfortable in the black gown. I am sure I

CAN'T ENFORCE DRY LAW WITH TRIAL BY JURY

The Senate Committee Hears Troubles of N. Y. Prosecutor

Washington, April 8.—(AP)—Federal District Attorney Buckner of New York told the Senate liquor committee today that enforcement of the prohibition law in New York is impossible unless officials are permitted to handle petty cases without trial by jury.

"I can't enforce the prohibition law, which is essentially a police law," the district attorney said "without the right of police court trial. If we are to enforce this law under jury trial, I should have 55 federal judges in my district alone."

"Then you want to abolish the constitutional right of a jury trial," asked Senator Reed, democrat of Missouri.

"I won't answer that with the 'constitutional' in it," Buckner replied.

"Well, the right of a jury trial," "I say petty offenses should be tried in police courts."

Reed Is Caustic

"Perhaps we ought to abolish every Anglo-Saxon right to prevent somebody from selling a glass of beer," retorted Reed.

Recalled to the stand by the wets, the New York district attorney also reiterated and defended his assertion of yesterday that sixty million gallons of alcohol is being diverted annually to the bootleg trade and recouped at length the difficulties standing in the way of enforcement of prohibition in New York City.

At the same time the committee put into its record a statement by George H. Mann, Illinois democratic leader, describing the prohibition situation in Chicago and saying that "prayers to be shielded from the blight of Volsteadism should be said every day in every American home where there are those of immature age."

Anton J. Cermak of the Cook County Board also submitted statistics to show increases in crime, alcoholism, poverty and pauperism in Chicago since the Volstead act became law.

Cites Chicago Figures

"We are now building a new and larger jail," he said. "Our appropriations for poverty and pauperism have increased from $268,988.03 in 1918 to $329,212.95 in the county agent's department alone. Appropriations for supplies for delinquent and dependent children have increased in the same period from $31,118.44 to $52,599.08."

We are spending $150,000 for maintaining dependent children in private homes in Cook County this year. There has been a steady increase in the Chicago police department, but still the increase in crime continues."

The drys will be given all of next week to reply to the case presented by the wets and to a case against modification of the law.

Questioned about what remedy could be applied aside from repeal of the dry law, District Attorney Buckner suggested that the law might be modified as a "bail" for New York State to enact laws for dry law enforcement.

General Andrews has said that the federal government must depend on the states to assist in enforcement," Buckner said. "New York State has declined to cooperate. Then its logical to ask congress to amend the law in the hope that the state will grab the 'bait'."

Cost 75 Million

In addition to the $5 judges the district attorney said that if the present system is to continue, he needed in his district many extra district attorneys, marshals and clerks with 1,500 additional dry agents. Pressed for the annual cost of such an enforcement machine, he said it would be $75,000,000 for the whole state of New York will all trials by juries, and $8,000,000 with police courts to try petty cases.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

BY AHERNS

"But what's $75,000,000 compared to enforcement of the law?" he said.

"We have eight million people in my district," he said, "and do you know how many agents we have? Just 23."

"That's an unlucky number," observed Senator Reed.

Interesting Event At the M. E. Church

The following communication from the Methodist Church is of interest:

It is seldom that a realization of what it means to put a boy up for sale to an American Audience, but such will be the case next Sunday evening at the First Methodist church. This service was postponed for a few weeks to make way for another very important service, but the plans and the program for this service is therefore more complete than ever. Every part and detail and the surprise features which this program contains is ready. All who are to have part in the program are straining their utmost power to bring to the auditors a service which will be talked of far and wide and will be remembered a long time. Telephone messages and personal calls have indicated that an unusually large attendance will be present to witness this unusual event in the life of a community. We have been informed that a delegation from Sterling will be present, and it will not surprise us if other towns will do the same thing. We have been assured in advance that there are several men who will make large offers for the boys who will be presented to the Sunday Evening Audience. There is seating capacity for 1000 people and perhaps an other hundred in the side rooms, and we urge those who desire to attend to come early as we dare not crowd the aisles. The service begins promptly at 7:30 p. m. A fine musical program will be given.

If Ban on Gasoline

Were Literally Taken

Springfield, April 8.—(AP)—Gasoline dealers would not be permitted to use underground tanks in the retail trade, filling stations could not employ transparent glass containers from which patrons are served by gravity, and gasoline tanks on automobiles would have to be painted red and labelled "gasoline"—if the broadest definition of the word "receptacle" were to be employed in interpreting the present law that requires all receptacles for the retailing of gasoline to be labeled and painted red.

This was the opinion of Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, given here today to State Fire Marshal John G. Gamber, in reply to the latter's inquiry as to whether it was the attorney general's opinion that filling station pumps must be painted red and labelled.

"It is my opinion that the word 'receptacle' in this act was intended by the legislature to have a restricted meaning," said the attorney general. "The intention was to provide for increased safety against fire by requiring retail merchants to sell and deliver gasoline only in cans or receptacles which are red in color and labeled under the statute. To use a broad definition of the word 'receptacle' would require one to place an absurd construction upon this statute."

Chicago Man Spoke to the Toastmasters

At last night's meeting of the Toastmasters' Club, held at the "Y", the Optometrists of Northern Illinois were the guests. The Optometrists were in the city holding an all-day clinic in the "Y" building and during the supper hour, Dr. George Rose of Chicago addressed the Club on "Modern Optometry."

A. L. Lang, a member of the Club, presented the experimental agricultural work being carried on by the Illinois University in this district. Superintendent I. B. Potter explained to the guests the purpose of the club and followed this with a practical lesson as a demonstration.

Dr. Hanks, who has recently come to the city as a partner of Dr. Geo. McGraham, was voted into membership in the club.

Hi-Y Club Pleased With Craig's Talk

At one of the best meetings of the year of the Hi-Y Club yesterday noon, W. D. Craig addressed the members on "Modern Science." He explained that modern science has branched out so many times that a man today must choose one of the small branches and specialize if he is to be a success. In closing he told these high school young men that the most difficult thing in science is to learn how to learn.

The Club elected four members to represent them in the Lee-Whitely Older Boys' Conference at Sterling. The delegates are Rhinehold Kerst, William Johnson, Carl Buchner and John Lockette.

Dixon High's Coach May Go to Clinton

Rumors to the effect that Coach A. C. Bowers of the Dixon high school may leave this city to take charge of affairs at the Clinton, Iowa, high schools have gained wide circulation in this vicinity. It is generally rumored that Coach Bowers will leave Dixon after five years of most successful work and succeed Lester Belding, star football player of Clinton, who has gone east to coach in college circles.

Reports from the local high school this morning indicated that no contract had been signed and that there was nothing definite as to the change, although it was admitted that Coach Bowers had gone to Clinton and met with the board of education. A "flirtation" is going on between the Clinton high school and the popular Dixon coach it was admitted.

Good Old Sir Thomas Surely Wants that Cup

New York, April 8—(AP)—A quarter century quest of the America's cup today finds Sir Thomas Lipton here on a visit, eager, at the age of 76, to press on for the elusive yachting trophy, an ambition which has outlived four straight defeats and an expenditure of close to $10,000,000.

Asked if the next challenge would be his last he said: "Certainly not, if we fail, I have the most valuable collection of yachting trophies in the world, but I shall not be satisfied until I win back for Great Britain the cup America took from us 75 years ago."

French Minister Quits Briand Cabinet Today

Paris, April 8—(AP)—Louis Malvy's resignation as minister of the interior was accepted by the cabinet today. Jean Durand, minister of agriculture, was appointed to succeed him. M. SWOLLEN STREAMS ARE STILL MENACE IN CENTRAL WEST

Cessation of Rain is Hopeful Sign However—Damage in Decatur

Chicago, April 8.—(AP)—Rivers of Illinois and Indiana swollen by heavy rains and melted snow, still held a menace to some localities today, although cessation of precipitation over most of the area was viewed hopefully.

Except for early morning showers in eastern Indiana, clear skies were promised for most of the central states. Further rain, however, was in prospect for this evening in the central plains area, while the weather will be unsettled Friday in the western and central sections, with probably showers.

Considerable property damage already has been suffered in the low lands of the two states, and farmers have been delayed in the sowing of spring grain crops.

The Wabash river, which forms part of the dividing line between Illinois and Indiana, was near flood stage even most of its course, while water from the Maumee river had flooded many cellars in the east side bottom lands of Fort Wayne.

Mississippi Rising
The Mississippi has been affected along with its tributaries, a foot and a half rise being registered at Quincy, Illinois, in 24 hours. The heavy rain-fall caused a break in the levee of the Fall Creek Drainage District near Quincy and the consequent inundation of about three square miles of territory. Mill Creek went out of its banks at Marquette, Ill., putting additional territory under water. Railroad tracks near Marquette were covered by water for a time but a recession allowed trains to pass.

Considerable damage was done at Decatur, Ill., where Lake Decatur reached the highest stage since it was impounded three years ago. Scores of basements were flooded and roads in and near the city were damaged.

Franklin Grove Paper Endorses Buck for House

The Franklin Grove Reporter of this week publishes a very nice tribute to E. R. Buck of that town, who is a candidate for one of the two Republican nominations for state representative. The Reporter says, under a heading that reads "Why We Endorse Mr. Buck":

"Almost every candidate makes a special appeal in seeking the votes of the people. One asks for votes because he is dry, another because he is wet, another because he is a farmer and will look after the farmers' interests, another appeals to labor and places legislation favoring that particular class ahead of any other measures, and so it goes."

In the selection of a man to represent this district in the legislature at Springfield—after being assured of his honesty and ability—the next important thing as it seems to us, is that he shall have nobody's axe to grind, that he be broad enough to legislate for all the people regardless of class.

Lee County offers to the Republican voters a man who is broad enough to see and know the needs of all the people and all the various interests—labor, business, manufacture, farming, and all the rest. We refer to E. R. Buck of Franklin Grove. We believe he is a man who may be trusted to legislate the greatest good for the greatest number.

We, therefore, heartily endorse Mr. Buck's candidacy.—Adv.

Renew Hope of Solving Mystery of Missing Millionaire

Albion, Ind., April 8.—(AP)—County authorities announced today that information which may aid in tracing Ambrose J. Small, missing Toronto millionaire, had been obtained from Charles Edgar Morris, held here on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

The money was given to C. A. Lincoln, prosecuting attorney of Noble County and F. L. Gerard, head of a Fort Wayne detective agency, after it became known that Morris had sent a telegram to Toronto, signed with Small's name.

Mr. Lincoln said he had dropped the theory that Morris might be Small. That he indicated belief that Morris' purported knowledge of Small's movements might provide clues of the missing millionaire.

Morris, held here for Wisconsin authorities as a fugitive from the state prison there, told Mr. Lincoln that Small was seen to leave a Toronto restaurant the night of November 29, 1919, meeting four persons with whom he drove away in an automobile. That was the last seen of him.

The telegram Morris sent to Toronto signed with Small's name was addressed to John Doudney of the Grand Theatre, owned by the missing millionaire and asked that $2,000 be wired here to his attorney, Claude V. Barker. Doudney was Small's secretary. No reply has been received by Barker.

"Suckers" Who Have Made Good in Big Activities

Chicago—(AP)—A literary tendency was inherited by both the Hapgood boys, born in Chicago in the late sixties, and as dramatic critics, magazine contributors and editors, and biographers, both Norman and Hutchins became famous in American literature.

Norman Hapgood, the elder, began as a dramatic critic in New York soon after achieving his M. A. degree at Harvard in 1893, and in 1903 he took the editorship of Collier's Weekly. Meanwhile, he had begun his series of biographies with a collection entitled Literary Statesmen. This was followed by others on Daniel Webster, Abraham Lincoln and George Washington, treated from a literary viewpoint rather than purely biography.

For many years Collier's reflected his vigorous journalistic personality, but in 1913 he went over the Harpers Magazine, and later became editor of Hearst's International magazine.

In between he gave a year to the United States diplomatic service as minister to Denmark, in 1919. Hutchins Hapgood followed his brother in taking up dramatic reviewing on Chicago and New York newspapers, collaborated with his wife on one of her series of fiction novels and produced several of his own, notable chiefly for their delineation of city types, among others, of the Ghetto.

YOU FOLKS WITH ACHES AND PAINS CAN GET QUICK RELIEF

Nationally Known Baseball Trainer Says It Does Not Matter Whether It Is Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia or Neuritis

LINIMENT HE USES ON BIG LEAGUE BALL PLAYERS STOPS PAIN QUICK

Tells How to Stop Pains, Aches, Lame Back Quickly

READ WHAT THIS EXPERT SAYS BELOW

For twenty-five years I have studied how to keep men in perfect physical condition and my experience makes me certain I can take a person no matter how much aches and hurt from rheumatism, lame back, neuritis, lumbago or neuralgia and quickly have them feeling like running a foot race or a home run.

Ball players after getting up a sweat often play an inning or two in the rain and then damp cold and chilled to the bone, catch trains with result that next day they show up at the ball park so crippled with rheumatism, lameness and stiff joints that they can hardly walk. An ordinary liniment would never fix them up quickly, but the liniment we use does the trick, declares Mike Martin, genial trainer of the Washington Baseball Club.

FANS KNOW MIKE.

So many people with rheumatism, lame backs, neuritis and neuralgia have wasted this liniment which we use at the ball park that bottles are mailed all over the country and now it can be obtained at the White Cross Drug Store, and all well stocked drug stores in small bottles for a few cents. Just ask for Mike Martin's Liniment. It is guaranteed to be the finest, speed.

CONFERENCE FOOT-BALL COACHES DISCUSS RULE CHANGE

Opinions on Penalty in Incomplete Pass of Varied Nature

Coaches in the Rock River Valley conference, in session here early in the week, discussed for a time the changes in the football rules which have been the subject of more or less comment in grid circle for several days. Many of these were asked for an opinion on the changes and the following replies were given the first being that of Coach A. C. Bowers of the Dixon football squad:

A. C. Bowers, Dixon.
"There is no complaining about the new forward pass rule. It has been enacted and we will have to live up to it for a year at least. I believe that the new rule will take a great deal of thrill from the spectators, especially the ones who know the game. I believe that the new ruling on the forward pass is a step backward in the modern game. It is merely legislation against the lighter and smaller teams who have relied upon the forward pass as a weapon of offense. However, it will not stop the throwing at random of forward passes in the closing minutes of play by the team that is behind."

"I believe that the safety rule is all right as it merely does away with the so-called stalling. The time is here when the people who attend games want action and the new ruling on the safety will tend to produce it while the ruling on the forward pass will tend to reduce it."

Ted Scheid, Rock Falls.
Coach Ted Scheid of the Rock Falls high school says:

"I feel that any curb on the forward pass takes a part of the thrill out of the game. A forward pass requires such a high degree of co-ordination and can be upset by so many small things that to limit a team means a partial return to the old style of football. A trailing team is going to pass in spite of the restriction so that the rule will fail to accomplish the purpose for which it was intended. Any team that can complete half of their tries is a wonder, so that the pass will be more of a weapon for a desperate team than a part of the regular offense."

"Regarding the safety: the change is just another penalty on brains. The rule makers particularly those of the east, seem determined to take initiative out of football."

Pat Dawson, Rochelle.
Pat Dawson, Rochelle high school coach and member of the Dixon Legion backfield last season, says:

"The new football rules for 1926 are revolutionary to some extent. In my opinion, all are good changes, except the five yard forward pass penalty. It is a backward step. It does not do what it was intended to do, and 1927 will see it changed."

L. R. Ricketts of the Polo high school favors the safety ruling and says:

"I don't see how the game can be as open as with the former rule pertaining to the forward pass, especially within the opposing team's twenty yard line. The lighter team which usually favors the open style of play will be affected most. The rule will probably eliminate reckless forward passing but forward passing ceases to be a threat when it is too reckless."

"Referring to the safety ruling, I am in favor of the rule. Now that the play is in use, it gives the winning team too many odds in stalling."

Roscoe Eades, Sterling.
Coach R. Eades of the Sterling high school squad believes that the big college teams will suffer more than the high schools and says:

"The safety ruling will no doubt do away with a deliberate attempt to donate two points to an opposing team merely to keep possession of the ball and to prevent the other teams from scoring. I think that this ruling will affect the college game more than that played by the high schools."

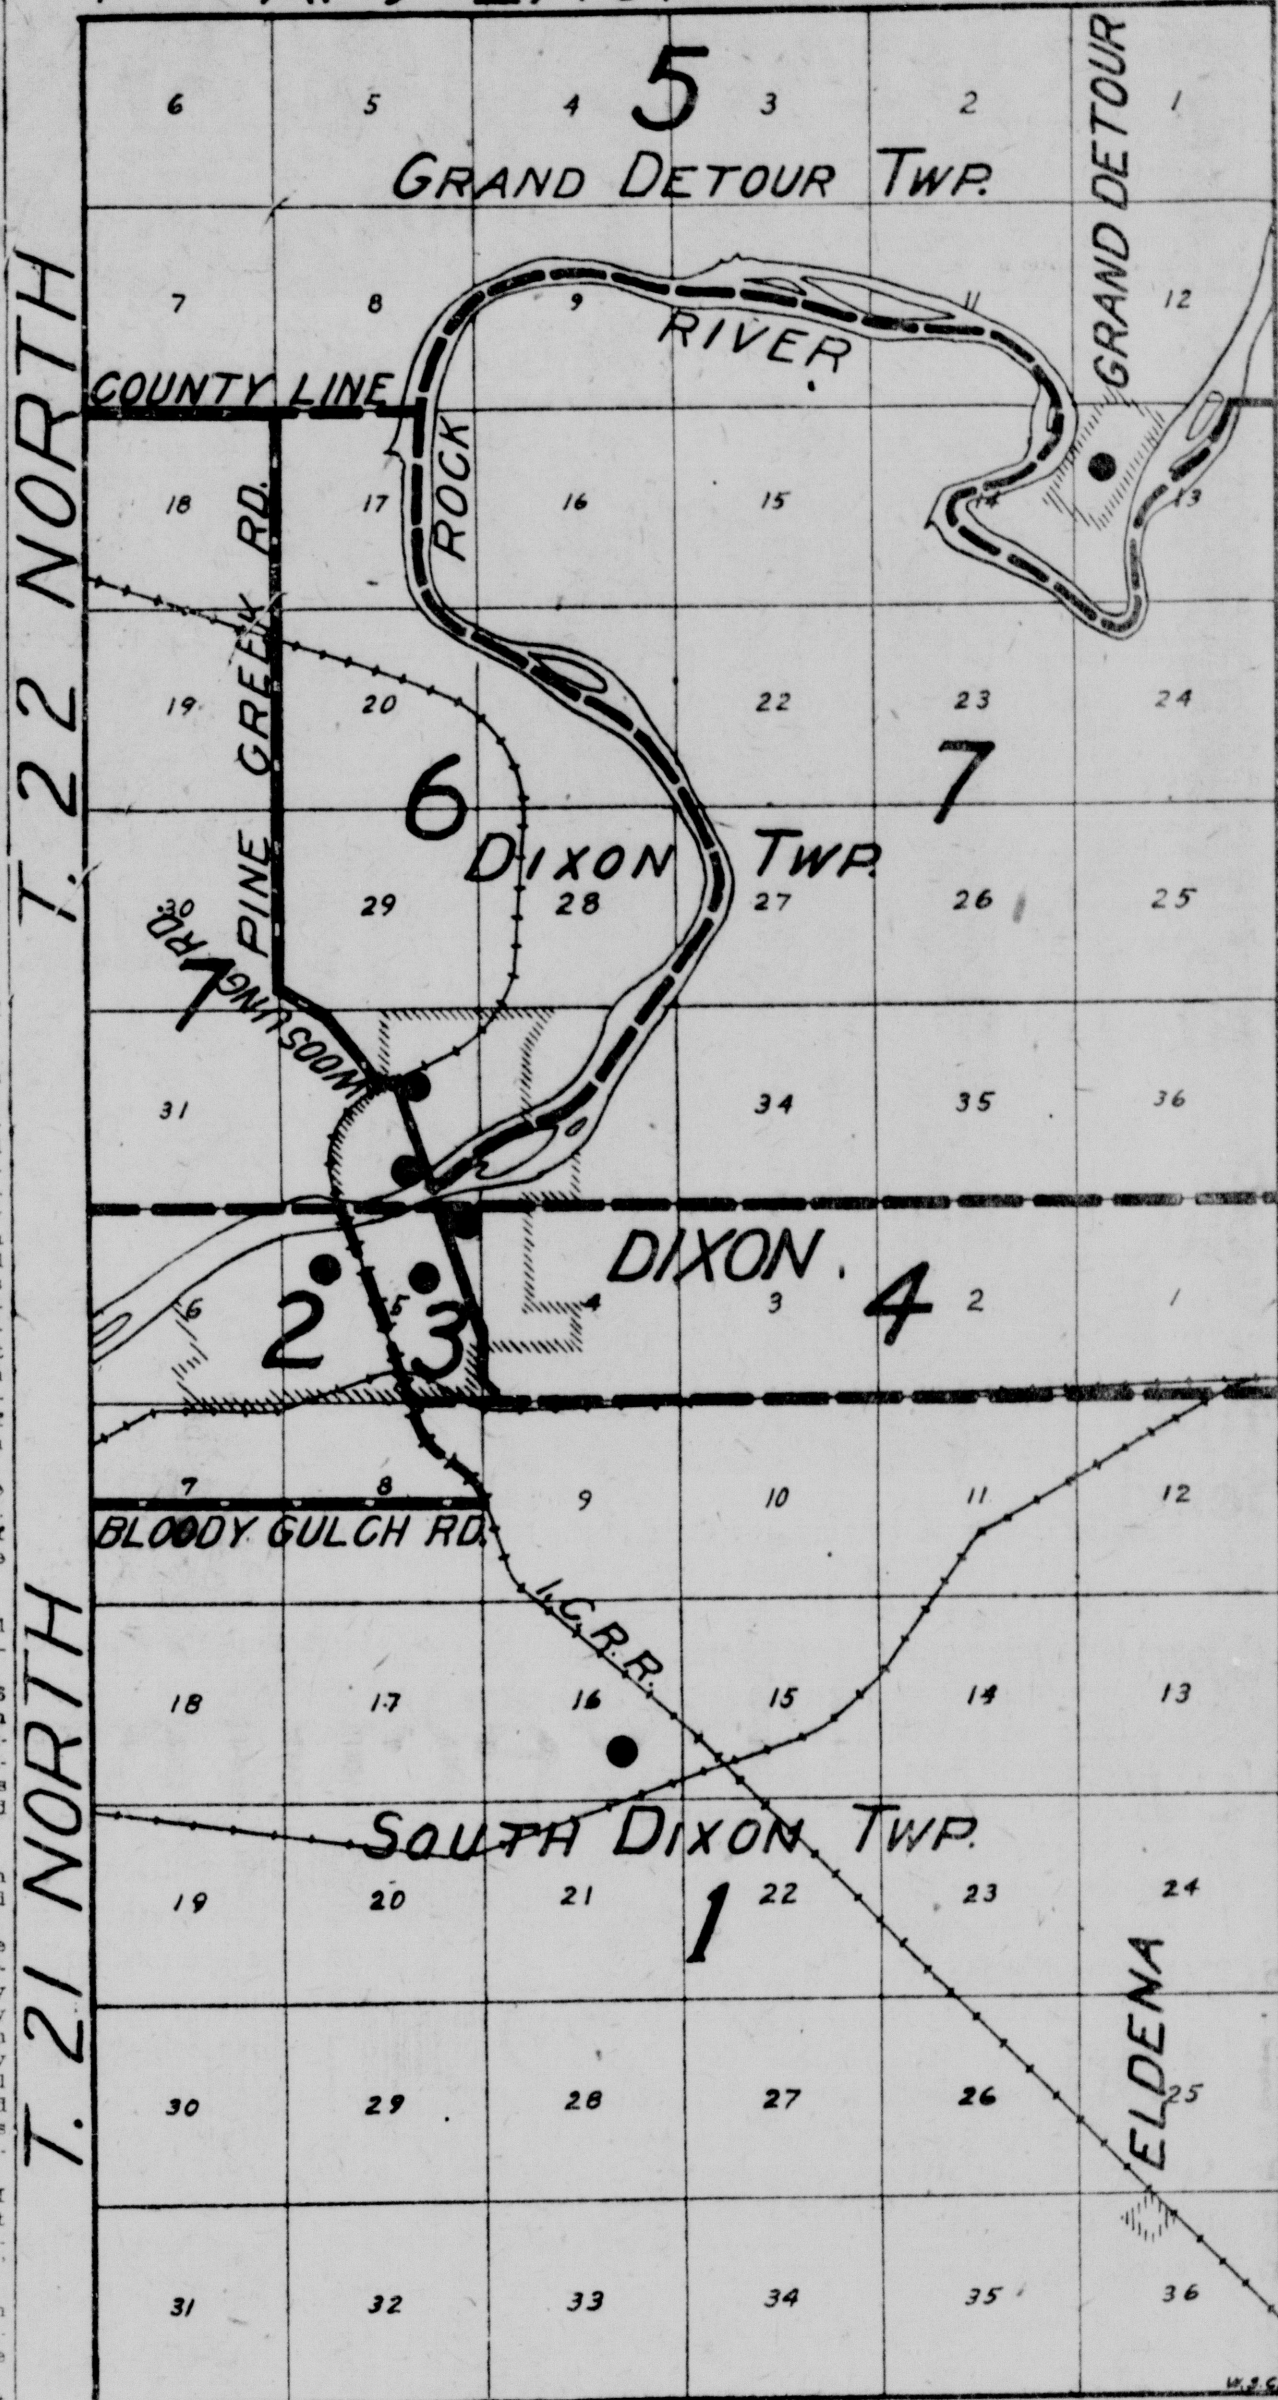

"The forward pass rule will not change the game materially. With some coaches the game will be played more conservatively while with others it will be played by taking every chance to score. I think the penalty will do little to restrain a passing team when it is behind."

B. O. Scully, Dixon.
Assistant Coach B. O. Scully after carefully studying the new rules, says:

"The advisability in the change of a rule of any kind can be determined only after such a change has been tested under actual game conditions. I have no pronounced views on the new forward pass rule but can see that indiscriminate passing will be checked, possibly not to as great an extent as might at first be thought. Teams are going to be careful about using passes early in the game and on early downs as they have usually done. Late in a game when a team is behind short passes are useless and a penalty of five yards will make little difference. Coaches will put more stress upon the scientific development of forward pass plays, a part of modern football which in most schools has been entirely too much neglected. Players will be schooled in throwing a receiving forward pass and from the standpoint of the number of completed passes, the game may be more spectacular from the spectator's view. An added burden will be placed upon the officials in knowing when and how much to penalize—possibly making fewer good officials. I do not believe that the new forward pass rule will make any material difference in the game."

"An intentional safety as well as stalling (distinguished from a slow offense) in football, is a cowardly means of often times checking up on the right side of the ledger, what would probably otherwise be a defeat. I am heartily in favor of the change in that it makes possible for the defensive team to secure possession of the ball, and turn to its advantage, anything it might have gained previously. For the team which made the safety must, for some reason or other, have been outwitted or it would not be so near its own goal as to make a safety advisable. I do not favor putting the ball in play by a free kick for it gives a team an advantage by allowing it without obstruction to kick the ball in most instances completely out of danger. I would prefer kicking from scrimmage, thereby shortening the kick somewhat and in turn lessening the advantage, or to give the ball to the opponents, say on the 40 yard line. Although not wholly in favor of the rule, I think that it is a step in the improvement of the game."

J. M. Dominetti, Amboy.
Coach J. M. Dominetti of the Amboy township high school had the following to say:

"The new interpretation on the forward pass has both good and bad points. I feel that it gives the defending team much on an advantage because of the penalty inflicted on an incomplete pass on second or third downs. A forward passing team tends to force the defense to spread out more than usual thus making its defensive line more vulnerable. Of course this will be done away with now."

"As far as curbing last quarter passing, I don't think it will work. A team which has all to gain and only five yards to lose (if the pass is incomplete) will certainly try longer forward passes. The rule will make the referee the most conspicuous man on the field without a doubt.

"The ruling on the safety puts a ban on football brains. I don't see why it was not left as before. We allow stalling in basketball and legislate against the intentional safety by forcing the team to kick from the 20 yard line on first down. The defensive backfield can arrange itself for a punt and easily return the ball within a reasonable distance of the goal. The restriction is too severe."

"Relative to the mid-west writing its own rules. The western conference two years ago ruled that a blocked punt which had struck a player on the kicker's side, should go to the opponents at that spot. While the official rules gave the kicker's side the ball if they recovered it, merely counting it as a down. It has been done before."

"One thing we must bear in mind. These changes were made in the interest of the game and merit a trial. If not satisfactory they can be ruled out without much difficulty."

World's Biggest Locomotive Went Through on the N. W.

The largest single locomotive in the world passed through Dixon Wednesday over the NorthWestern, enroute from the American Locomotive Works at Dunkirk, N. Y. to Omaha, where it will be turned over to the Union Pacific. The description of the engine is:

Length, 102.7 feet.
Weight, 390 tons.
Boiler, 65 feet long.
Tank carries 15,000 gallons water and 21 tons coal.
Drivers, 6 pairs, 67 inches high.
Steam pressure, 220 lbs.
It is known as Union Pacific Type 4-12-2 and is the first of 14 ordered by that company and will pull two ordinary fast freight trains over the mountains.

The engine left Dunkirk, N. Y., April 1st traveling in the day time only and will reach Omaha Saturday April 10th in charge of service engineers Albert Hassenfelt and Archie Mulkin of the Brooks Shops, Dunkirk, N. Y. who are camping out in the cab of the engine. They have a stove installed and cots and cook, eat and sleep enroute.

Watching Major League Teams in Training Practice

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Babe Ruth is proving that he can still send the ball to the far reaches of the diamond. His waist line somewhat reduced in comparison to last year, the New York slugger has been pounding out safe hits with a semblance of regularity during the present training season. He figured prominently in his team's ninth straight victory at Charlotte, N. C., yesterday over the Brooklyn Dodgers, getting a homer and a brace of analytics.

Rocky Harris and his Washington Senators have further convinced McGraw that they will be running next fall as recently forecast by the Giant manager. Yesterday at Atlanta, Ga., the Senators shut out the Giants, allowing only two men to reach second and one to reach third. The series now stands 4 to 2 in favor of the Senators.

The St. Louis Cardinals closed their training tour yesterday with a victory at Springfield, Mo., and will meet the Browns at St. Louis tomorrow. The Browns play Memphis again today. Their game ended with a tied score yesterday.

Chicago's Cubs, tanned in sunny California, went down to defeat yesterday in Kansas City's cold and snow. The Blues got to the vet Alexander for 8 hits and 3 runs in five frames. The Chicago White Sox were again cheated out of a game by the weather, this time at Evansville, Ind.

Rain yesterday caused postponement of the first game of the Boston city series to be played by the Braves and Red Sox. The Philadelphia Athletics and Phillies will meet twice more before the season opens.

Either Homer Summa of Cliff Lee will tend the right garden for the Cleveland Indians when they open the season with Detroit. Asserting salary questions are a club's private business, President Barnard has refused to comment on the report that Pitchers Uble and Shaute will receive the most money ever paid them if their work this season is of high calibre.

Unsettled weather at Nashville yesterday resulted in the Detroit Tigers missing their first day's work since training opened.

Announcements on opening game lineups are being made freely. McGraw says Lindstrom will start at third for the Giants. Pittsburgh Pirates will have Bigbee in left field unless Paul Waner, coast "find," improves his batting.

Hendricks of the Cincinnati Reds plans to use two rookie hurlers in his season opening series with the Cubs. Donohue, only regular in prime condition, will pitch the opener and Mays the next. Catcher Wingo, unsigned, will discuss the future with the club bosses today.

Mandell and Kid Brown Will Mix this Evening

Chicago, April 9—(AP)—Sammy Mandell, Rockford, lightweight, engages Kid Brown of Philadelphia in a ten round contest at East Chicago tonight at 135 pounds. They met in New York two years ago, Mandell winning a shade decision.

VOTE FOR

X HARRY G. WRIGHT

FOR

State Senator

Primary

Tuesday, April 13,
1926

Senator Henry M. Dunlap, the Dean of the Illinois State Senate, says:

"Your record in the Fifty-Third General Assembly while acting as chairman of the important committee on Appropriations was especially fine. Appropriations in the Senate, largely through your influences, were cut about a million dollars. I realized that your action at the time was taken in opposition to and in spite of strong pressure from sources high up and that it required courage on your part to oppose these appropriations. We need more men of courage in the legislature who will act up to their convictions.

You have my best wishes in securing a re-nomination."

Very truly yours,
HENRY M. DUNLAP.

Senator James J. Barbour, says:

"In 1923 Senator Wright was chairman of the Appropriations Committee, and in the final days of the session led in a fight on the floor attacking appropriations that had been voted in the House and in Committee, with the result that one million dollars was slashed from the Omnibus Bill. Such fearless, intelligent, economic and independent action was unprecedented in legislative history. It invited the active opposition of the Governor, whose followers superseded Senator Wright as Committee Chairman at the next session of the Senate.

"His record in the 1925 session was increasingly useful. A Senator should represent the entire state, and Illinois must have a fighting force of Senators that have the courage and caliber of Senator Wright if raids on its Treasury are to be prevented and the scandalous control by powerfully entrenched political combines circumvented."

JAMES J. BARBOUR,
State Senator

Senator Andrew S. Cuthbertson, says:

"Your services in the matter of keeping down appropriations when you were Chairman of the Appropriations Committee and also during the last session of the General Assembly were invaluable to the state. I know nothing about conditions in your district and nothing about any opposition you may have but I will say that your defeat would be a real loss to the state. You have been an untiring worker in all matters of legislation and I hope to meet you when the next session convenes."

Very truly yours,
A. S. CUTHBERTSON.

The Genoa Republican of March 26, 1926, said of Senator Harry G. Wright:

"His record creates confidence. He is one man who has taken his job seriously and produced results in the State Senate."

The Prairie Farmers Says:

Thirty-Fifth District: (DeKalb, Lee and Whiteside)

Senate, R—Harry G. Wright, Doctor, DeKalb—is an able member whose record entitles him to re-nomination.

The Legislative Voters League Says:

Well informed, active, increasing independence. Reduced the Omnibus Bill by more than a million dollars when he was chairman of the Appropriation Committee in the 1923 session of the legislature. Decidedly creditable record.

FACTS

He is the only candidate in the 35th Senatorial District who is a member of the American Legion.

He is honest, industrious and independent.

He has a fine private and public record.

He is one of the recognized leaders in the State Senate.

He is an able speaker, organizer and business man.

He stands for economy and efficiency in our State Government.

He will represent the interests of every man, woman and child in our district.

He can render greater service in the future than he has in the past.

FOR TABLE USE

GOOD LUCK IS THE Spread for Bread TO USE ON THE Dining Table

The housewife can serve fresh, delicious GOOD LUCK on the table, please the family, and save money, and she should do so FRESH Jelke GOOD LUCK margarine has a delicacy of flavor that is delightfully appetizing. You smack your lips over a real table luxury when you eat GOOD LUCK; and really enjoy your bread and biscuits.

The secret of its excellence lies in the fact that it is a blended food. Several fats are combined to make it. Each contributes its quota of food value or flavor to the tasteful result. And each is the best of its kind.

Every one of the ingredients is A-1. Nothing but the best is used. The best of fresh, rich, whole milk! The best of choice meat fats selected for excellence! That is why GOOD LUCK is so good. It's table quality throughout.

GOOD LUCK margarine shows that the blending method is the one right way to make the finest spread for bread. Better flavor, greater food value, assured purity are the results. It is a definite advance in the preparation of a food. It should be on your table. Try it.

"PRODUCERS WEEK" THROUGHOUT MID-WEST, APR. 19-24

Planned to Give an Impetus to Co-operative Marketing

Chicago (AP)—Cooperative marketing, the 20th century merchandising mechanism which farmers of Illinois are using to market nearly $200,000,000 worth of agricultural products annually, is to be given an added impetus throughout the Middle West during the week of April 19 to 24, according to the Illinois Agricultural Association, which will push the campaign in this state.

The "Producer Week" was designated here today by resolution of the executive committee of the National Livestock Producers Association. During this week the story of cooperative marketing, what it has done and can do, will be carried to practically every farmer's meeting in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Indiana through the farm organizations which are writing in this revival of cooperative marketing of live stock.

"Producer Week" will mark the rallying of the membership to the support of the Chicago Producers Livestock Commission Association, according to the resolution of the National Livestock Producers association. "Say it with cars," is a slogan.

The American Farm Bureau federation, the state farm bureaus, including the Illinois Agricultural Association, the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, and the Indiana, Wisconsin and Minnesota farm bureaus, took part in the reorganization and will be asked to cooperate in giving this week wide publicity for the purpose of demonstrating with care the confidence which these organizations expressed in the Producers cooperative live stock marketing program.

The resolution passed by the Executive Committee of the National Live Stock Producers association today says: "We most cordially recommend that live stock producers throughout the country and especially in the Chicago market territory observe the week of April 19th as a most fitting and appropriate time to rededicate themselves to the cause of cooperative live stock marketing. The reorganization of the Chicago Board, with the addition of five new men to more nearly represent their trade territory, and the cooperation which was requested by the membership for a closer working relation with the Farm Bureau, should be the occasion for a great, forward strike in the program of price stabilization and orderly marketing which this association has undertaken."

C. B. Denman, president of the National, says: "As live stock farmers we have learned to cooperate in the business of selling our products. We have built an organization which in four years has handled more than $250,000,000 worth of live stock from 28 states for 250,000 members and have saved more than a million dollars in terminal marketing expenses. We have gone onto the Chicago live stock market, the largest in the world, and have built a selling agency which has fought its way to the head of the list of 120 competitors and has handled $7,000 cars of more than $100,000,000 worth of live stock and has saved in excess of $340,000.

The Chicago Producers handled $33,000,000 worth of live stock in 1925 while the St. Louis and Indianapolis organizations handled $23,000,000 and $19,000,000 worth respectively. Six of our thirteen agencies rank "first" on their respective markets while five more are in second and third place. These organizations have rendered an outstanding service and merit the support of livestock farmers who believe in the future of American Agriculture is in the farmers' own hands.

"We announce 'Producer Week' confidently believing that members in our Chicago territory particularly will meet the challenge which the opposition has offered."

INSULTED

To achieve elegance, madame ordered a pair of smart boots from an expensive shop. Some days after delivery she returned them.

"Your boots don't fit well. I can't walk in them."

"Madame," replied the dignified shopkeeper "people who have to walk don't shop here."—Sana Gene.

DISHRAG IDENTIFIES CAR
Wichita, Kas.—A dishrag placed in the pocket of an automobile last spring enabled the owner to regain possession of the car when it was stolen. The engine number had been changed, but identification of the dishrag was sufficient evidence for the sheriff to release the vehicle.

RACING INTEREST BOOMS

London—Interest in horse racing in England has been increasing greatly. Statistics issued by the Racing Calendar show that during the last flat racing season 4,650 horses ran under Jockey Club rules, this being the greatest total on record. In 1827 only 1,166 horses ran during the season.

Oregon—The election held Tuesday did not cause much excitement and the results were as follows for Asessor:

Chas. Butterbaugh, 414 votes.
George Andrews, 728 votes.
For town clerk—
Harry Sears 578 votes.
Harry Pinkbaker, 577 votes.
For Library Board: Frank Nye and Michael Farrell with no opposition.
For member of Coliseum Board: Harry H. A. Smith, with no competition.

Chas. Hamilton Good of Chicago is expected Friday to spend the week end as a guest of Billy Thorpe and to attend the Junior Prom which is to be held at the Coliseum Friday night.

Mrs. Roland Jones was hostess to the Tuesday afternoon Club this week.

The members of the M. E. Church were delighted to hear that the Easter collection was about $1300. This will place the church out of debt and be able to do some more repairs.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Strook and daughter Elizabeth and Mrs. F. R. Robinson and daughter Rachel spent Monday afternoon in Rockford.

Little Betty Grimes, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Grimes, who is a patient in the Dixon hospital, is reported not so well.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murdoch and daughter Rebecca and Mildred Shepherd were Rockford visitors Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Price and family who have been living in the Murdock apartment expect to move into the Sherbert house on West Jefferson St. the middle of this month. The house was recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Wooding and family. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Seyfarth spent Sunday in Polo.

Mr. Isaac Segster returned Saturday from the Dixon hospital and is able to be on the street again greeting his friends.

Duane Grimes, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Grimes, is ill at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Albert Seyfarth of Chama, Ill.

Marco Polo Lodge Celebrated Birthday

(Telegraph Special Service)
Polo, April 9—Marco Polo lodge of Rebekahs celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary in connection with its regular meeting Thursday evening, a feature being the presence of nine charter members, Mrs. Grace Freeseberg Abbott of Rockford and Mrs. Jessie Reinert of Freeport being original members who were present from out of town.

Following the business meeting of the lodge an interesting program was given, consisting of a Mother Goose play, a pageant, "Rock of Ages," readings and instrumental and vocal solos. During the program each of the nine charter members present was given a token of esteem, the presentation being made by Mrs. Blanche Anderson, Noble Grand, and Alex Anderson responded for the recipients.

At the conclusion of the program refreshments of ice cream, wafers and coffee were served.

Presidents' Assoc. Happily Entertained

The Presidents' Association of the Ladies of the A. O. U. met at the home of Mrs. J. A. Whitten on Tuesday, April 6th. A picnic dinner was enjoyed at noon, and a pleasant day followed.

The business of the Association was transacted.

A card party was held on Wednesday evening, April 7th.

The Association will meet with the president, Mrs. Justus Schweinsberg on the fourth of May.

J. F. F. Club Held Pleasant Meeting

The members of the J. F. F. Club held a most enjoyable meeting last evening at the home of Miss Lola Glassner. Bridge was the amusement and Miss Lucile Stahl won the first prize at bridge, while Miss Goldie Albright won the consolation prize.

Delicious refreshments were served, the pretty decorations being in keeping with the Easter theme, the place cards being cunning little bunnies, while the favors were dainty little baskets with choice confections.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY TO MEET

The Women's Missionary Society of the Grace Evangelical church will hold its April meeting at the home of Mrs. John Schumm, 510 Squires avenue on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Mrs. Schumm and Mrs. T. Kroehler will have charge of the meeting. Members and friends are urged to come.

G. A. R. Day Was Beautifully Observed

Last evening in G. A. R. hall, the sixtieth birthday of the Grand Army of the Republic was fittingly celebrated. Sixty years ago in Decatur, Ill., the Grand Army of the Republic was organized and today the remnant of that brave band is highly esteemed and revered in every state in the Union.

The members of the Women's Relief Corps entertained at 6 o'clock with one of their justly famed dinners, including hot beef and potatoes, salads, relishes, desserts and excellent coffee. The dinner was attended by a large number, comrades, Corps members and guests. The comrades were seated at a long table beautifully decorated with cut flowers, there being fifteen of the veterans present.

After the delicious dinner a most enjoyable program was given.

Many additional guests arrived for the evening to listen to the program, the hall being crowded with pleased spectators, about 200 in all, who greatly enjoyed the readings and the music, including the numbers by the Sunday school orchestra of Grace

JOHNSON PROVES FARMERS' FRIEND

What Others Promise to Do, Johnson Has Done

A. D. FAIRBAIN, Agricultural Economist of Washington, D. C., in Writing of Congressman Johnson's Farm Records Says:

"Representative William R. Johnson of the Thirteenth district of Illinois has made a record in Congress perfectly satisfactory to the American Farm Bureau federation. The National grange, the National Farmers' union and other organizations through which American agriculture expresses itself find nothing to criticize in the public conduct of the Freeport statesman."

"I am very glad that Mr. Johnson has aligned himself with the farmers of the country in their demand for an economic square deal," said Chester Gryn, legislative representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation. "I notice that he has continually voted for measures endorsed by our organization and it appears to be safe to say that we can depend upon his aid in the adoption of any reasonable program for the removal of obstacles from the path of the farmer."

President Thompson of the same organization said that he had looked up the record of Mr. Johnson and he found it in every way satisfactory from an agricultural viewpoint.—Adv.

The Town That Was, Was Not—and Is!

THIS is a story of a town that was, was not and is. For many years it was. In two minutes it ceased to exist. Now, a year later, it is.

Its founders were descendants of frontiersmen—romantic and colorful figures who conquered the great empire that lies west of the Appalachians. Their intrepid spirit and tenacity in the face of great odds is reflected in their sons, whom this story concerns.

Away down in southern Indiana where the Wabash tumbles through dark forests toward its confluence with the Ohio, lies the little town of Griffin. Ringed by low hills, its lonely isolation gives it the appearance of being on the frontier. An antique engine, reminiscent of Civil War wood-cuts, puffs down the branch spur of railroad to bring in the town's daily passenger train.

Here, on March 18, 1925, the townspeople went about their untroubled life with no thought of the epic tragedy that was forming to strike. Even had they known its inception, its remoteness would have left them incredulous. What concerns had they with a disturbance in the atmosphere more than 2,000 miles away, far down in the Gulf of Lower California? Yet Nature's Four Horsemen even then were preparing to leap to the saddle and with incredible speed to cover the distance to this little Indiana village.

Meteorologists say that it was along the west coast of Mexico that the greatest tornado in the history of mankind started. For 2,000 miles it traveled, leaping high over the great hurdle of the Rockies until, in southeastern Missouri, it suddenly came to earth. The man-made world then began to fly apart in all directions. Spinning along at the rate of a limited train, the gigantic twister took only two hours to reach Griffin. It passed in less than two minutes. And Griffin ceased to exist.

During the World War newspapers were constantly publishing pictures showing the utter destruction of French towns caused by the terrific pounding of the greatest artillery concentrations ever known. Had all the guns in that great conflict been turned on Griffin they could not have done more damage. It looked like a place that had been blown up and abandoned. Fire added its terrors to light a scene of ruin and death about as complete as was ever witnessed in this country. It is probably the only recorded instance where every man, woman and child in a town were either killed or injured. Scores never emerged alive from under the blackened, twisted mass of burning debris. Those who did were stunned by the picture before them. But only for a few moments. With indomitable courage they went about helping pull each other out of the flaming ruins. Men with broken arms and other serious injuries were seen trying to drag pinned neighbors from under the wreckage. One father had the ghastly experience of seeing his son burned to death under a great pile of timbers too heavy to move. When the fire came close the two simply shook hands and said good-bye.

Deeds of striking heroism illumined the stark tragedy while word of the catastrophe was sweeping through to the outside world. Workers of the Evansville Chapter of the Red Cross, 30 miles away, were just sitting down to a formal dinner when an excited bell-boy ran into the hotel dining room shouting, "There is a terrible disaster in Griffin. They want doctors, nurses and bedding at once." Leaving their dinner untouched the workers dashed in an automobile for a firehouse where their disaster relief equipment was stored.

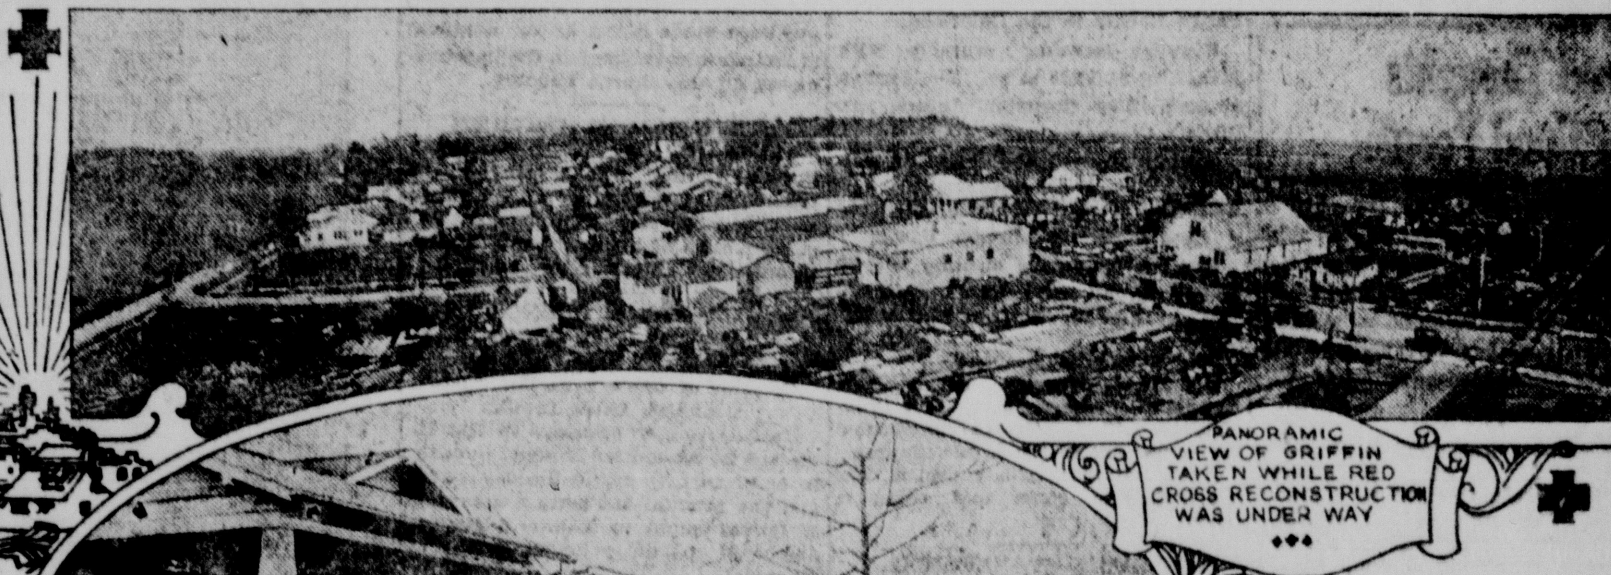

A special train was quickly made up and aboard it went hundreds of volunteers with picks, axes, and lanterns. This corps of rescuers had been assembled in a novel way. Miss Grace Wright, secretary of the Evansville Chapter of the Red Cross, had visited every large motion picture theatre in the city, described the extent of the disaster and called for volunteers. Dozens left their seats in the theatres and departed for the station.

The quaint old town of New Harmony, six miles from Griffin, had a large gymnasium, which was converted into a first-aid station, where doctors and nurses from Evansville and surrounding towns worked all night treating the injured. Every doctor in Evansville had offered his services free. Eight city ambulances piled back and forth, and 32 victims suffering from serious injuries were brought from Griffin. Special care was given the children of the destroyed town and to get them away from the horror of the tornado scenes many were brought to Evansville in motor buses for a round of the picture shows and other entertainments.

After all the emergency needs of the population of Griffin had been cared for to the extent that no tornado victim suffered from lack of food, clothing, shelter and medical attention, the permanent process of reconstruction began. The American Red Cross, which had been entrusted with this task by the state of Indiana, set up headquarters manned by trained disaster relief workers.

A tent city, healthful and orderly, with gravel walks, canteen and supervised water supply, sprang up. It had the efficiency and cleanly appearance of a well-policed army camp. Townspeople who assembled there to live proudly put up a large sign over its gateway, "American Red Cross Tent City." It could be seen for miles.

GRIFFIN AS IT IS TODAY. ATTRACTIVE HOMES OF THIS TYPE STAND ON EXACT SPOT SHOWN IN THE PICTURE BELOW

SWEPT CLEAN FROM END TO END. GRIFFIN, INDIANA, A FEW HOURS AFTER THE GREAT TORNADO OF MARCH 18, 1925.

Then began the miracle of raising a new town from the ashes of the old. On the unit basis of the family the Red Cross began the huge task of reconstructing a community. Its workers "sat in" with each family and ascertained its losses. With this information estimate was made of the family's needs—not only those of the immediate future, but the permanent requirements. Awards were made for rebuilding and refurnishing homes.

Soon Griffin hummed with the "symphony of saws." With the charred debris and wreckage cleared away, new homes of the attractive and popular bungalow type began to rise. As the spring and summer progressed a new Griffin took form. Stores and shops sprang up like mushrooms; the lofty forms of grain elevators arose along the railroad.

With scenes recalling the most tragic happenings of their lives, the youngsters responded with enthusiasm to this outlet for their natural joyous emotions, so long pent up. The Red Cross helped them forget by providing them a place where again they might all play together. Their happiness had its natural reaction in their parents. "Tornado nerves" vanished for good.

As rapidly as new homes were built, the population of the tent city began to flow into them. Before the first snowfall the tents had been emptied and were taken down. Streets lined with attractive homes began to greet the eye. Now, a year later, Griffin is the same as it was before the disaster. Not the same, if you talk to the town's leading citizens.

"It is prettier than ever," is their proud comment.

And who wouldn't be proud of such an achievement? Less than twelve months ago these people gazed with horror and dismay upon a tangled mass of junk, level with the ground, where their town once stood. It simply did not exist! Only two houses, mere broken shells, without roofs or inside, were left above ground out of the whole town. Is it any wonder that some thought it would be best to abandon the place and move away?

Yet, with the help of the Red Cross and their own unselfish, unremitting labor, the new Griffin, a veritable Phoenix amongst towns, had risen from the ashes!

As the ancient engine puffed into the station and the visitor prepared to depart, a friendly hand took him by the arm.

"Look here," said its owner. And from an inside pocket he pulled a news dispatch, clipped from a paper in a larger Indiana city.

"Estimated Value of Griffin Township Greater Than Before the Tornado," read the headline. "What do you think of that?" asked the Griffinite, proudly.

"Great stuff!" mumbled the visitor, not knowing what else to say right off. But as he rode away he thought: "Here is a people who have built back on the ashes of their sorrow and despair, a place where they can live and look fearlessly at the future. For what can the future hold that would daunt them?"

Competition Very Keen Among School Boy Judges

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—State-wide rivalry among boy judges of grain and live stock is already keen, with the approach of the annual sectional judging contests. F. G. Makopace, assistant state supervisor of vocational agriculture, declared here recently.

Nearly one thousand boys, constituting over one hundred school teams, are expected to register for the contests which commence April 23. The vocational agriculture board has blocked off the counties of the state into ten groups or divisions, each of which will state a judging contest between the school teams in that division.

Last year 101 teams, some of which were composed of as high as twenty boys from a single school, participated in these sectional contests, a total of 810 young judges being registered. These sectional contests were followed in the early summer by a state-wide judging contest at the University of Illinois to which eighty-seven high school sent teams. This post-season contest will be repeated.

Contestants this year will judge fat stock, beef and dairy cattle, horses, sheep, poultry, swine, and grain. Grain judged will be corn, clover, wheat and soy beans. The identification of different crops and weed seeds will also be required.

Commencing with section 6 at Pekin on Friday, April 23, this year's section judging contests will continue through the month of May as follows: Friday, April 30, east half of section 3 at Minsboro; Tuesday, May 3, west half of section 3 at Assumption; Friday, May 7, section 5 at Jacksonville; Saturday, May 8, sections 2 at Flora and 10 at Lake Villa; Tuesday, May 11, section 4 at Blumhardt; Wednesday, May 12, section 7 at Normal Saturday, May 14, section 9 at Rawleigh Farm, Freeport; Thursday, May 20, section 8, Princeton; Friday, May 21, section 1 at Carbondale.

Scouting in Lee and Ogle Counties Area

Boy Scout Troop No. 3 the American Legion Troop, held their first Scout meeting last night in the American Legion rooms. There were only a few boys present but the troop is one that will grow very rapidly. Elwyn Bunnell the Scoutmaster promises to pep things up and if you want to get in a lively troop, troop three will be the one. Watch them grow.

All Merit Badge applications must be filled out and in at Scout Headquarters ten days before the next Court of Honor is held. Work hard now and get your tests passed and your Merit badges also. Applications brought in the last minute will not be accepted. The next Court of Honor will be held some time the latter part of May or first of June.

SCOUTS BEHIND HORSES

A laundry wagon horse struggling to regain its footing on a wet, slippery railroad track was recently saved by an alert Boy Scout just as the gates were about to be lowered for the approach of a train. The incident occurred in Baugus, Mass. Scout Gordon Jameson was talking to the station agent when he saw the horse fall. The gatetender, busy at lowering the gates, could render no assistance. But the boy grabbed a flag and ran down the tracks toward the oncoming train. The engineer saw the signal in time and was able to stop his locomotive within a few feet of the horse.

OBITUARY

ADDISON A. HECKART (Contributed)

Addison A. Heckart, son of Peter and Elizabeth Heckart, was born in Somerset, Pa., Oct. 24, 1844, and passed to his eternal rest at the Alexian Brothers hospital in Chicago, March 25, 1926, at the age of 81 years, 8 months and six days. At the age of 17 he enlisted in Co. G, 75th Illinois, serving three years and several months, receiving his honorable discharge in April 1865. January 1, 1868, Mr. Heckart was united in marriage with Mary Jane Colwell and to them one daughter was born, Mrs. Temperance Tilton, now residing in Amboy. In 1880 he and his wife united with the Presbyterian church of Ashton, of which he remained a faithful member, taking active part in its doings until moving to Chicago, where his duties, being night work, he was unable to attend regularly. His last employment was with Marshall Field and company, remaining in their employ for the last 19 years. His other affiliations were the Grand Army of the Republic, in which he filled many offices and was commander of Old Glory post of Chicago, serving one term, was re-elected for a second term but only served at one meeting after installation when death released him. The post did him honor in holding services for him at the North Side chapel before his remains were sent to Amboy.

He will be much missed by his comrades for his kindness in always looking after those who were sick and unable to attend meetings of the post. He was a Past Noble Grand of Ashton lodge, No. 977, I. O. O. F., and also of Abigail Rebekah lodge of Lee Center, No. 759. He leaves to mourn his passing his daughter, Mrs. Tilton of Amboy, one grandson, one step daughter, Mrs. Frank Bohart of Ashton, three step grandsons, one step grand daughter and a host of friends. Funeral services were held at the residence of Mrs. Tilton at Amboy Friday afternoon, April 2, conducted by Rev. Jereck, but owing to the blocked condition of the roads, the remains lay in state until Sunday afternoon when after short services at the home, the remains were taken by auto to Ashton where services at the grave were conducted by lodge No. 977, I. O. O. F., and interment was made in the Ashton cemetery by the side of his wife.

Hindsboro State Bank Closed by an Examiner

Hindsboro, Ill., April 9—(AP)—The State Bank of Hindsboro is closed by order of Carl H. Weber, assistant chief state bank examiner who has taken charge of affairs.

The bank has been reported in financial straits for several months, "frozen assets" being given as the cause. The last report on March 31, 1926 showed time deposits of $49,470.98 and demand deposits of $104,349.62. The bulk of the loans are said to be farmers. Some time ago an assessment of $100 per share which netted $30,000 was ordered by a state examiner and this was placed in the bank's reserve account but did not carry the bank through.

The bank was organized ten years ago. John Crawford is president.

SHAWLS FOR DAY

An unusual note in this spring's style is that of a frock accompanied by a matching shawl of plain crepe, very lavishly fringed. This, incidentally is a day costume.

RICH EFFECT

For the most picturesque evening gowns the use of pearl or rhinestone embroidery is still the proper treatment.

BSLTS AND HATS MATCH

Leather belts are returning to favor with the tailored suit, and it is a charming fashion to have them match the hat and hosiery.

Precinct Committeemen Hold Important Places

Springfield, Ill., April 9—(AP)—Pointing out that circuit judges in the seventeen judicial circuits will be named by precinct committeemen, Justice Floyd Thompson of the Illinois Supreme Court said that the office of precinct committeeman is one of the most important in the coming primary, April 13.

"It may seem on its face," he said "an absurd statement, but when it is explained that all circuit judges who are to serve from 1927 to 1933 in territory outside of Cook county, will be nominated by delegates sent to judicial conventions by precinct committeemen and in most instances these delegates will be definitely instructed, its truth becomes evident.

"In addition to selecting the circuit judges, these committeemen will also select delegates to the state conventions where the party platforms will be written and trustees for the University of Illinois will be nominated. They also fill vacancies occurring on party tickets and perform other party duties."

Church Notes

Good Thoughts for Good People

Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him: for we shall see him as he is. And every man that has this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure.

I. JOHN.

The claim to the right to Freedom, the claim to the right of equality, with the resultant right to self-government—the rule of the people—have no foundation other than the common brotherhood of man derived from the common fatherhood of God.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Humility—that low, sweet root from which all heavenly virtues shoot.

MOORE.

Follow the Christ, the King.
Live pure, speak true, right, wrong,
Else, wherefore born?

TENNYSON.

Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.

CHRIST JESUS.

What is it that stand out so conspicuously in the life of Jesus, apart from his healings? Is it not the spirit of humility? Humility is there. Gentleness is there. Purity is there. Reverence, gratitude, faithfulness, wisdom, honesty, compassion, all are there. And love is there—love rich, full, spontaneous, generous. Jesus was himself the most unselfish of men; and as a result he was more able than any other to destroy the illusions of the so-called carnal or mortal mind.

There was a fine attendance at the meeting of the Missionary Society in the basement of the church, Thursday afternoon. A helpful devotional was led by Mrs. Fred Johnson. The subject, "Prayer and Missions," was very informing on the subject of prayer, as developed among converts from heathenism to Christianity. The hostesses were Mrs. Olive Spangler, Mrs. Fannie Wolf, Mrs. Wilbert Emmert and Mrs. Carl Spangler, who served a very appetizing lunch.

Animals Never Before Seen In America to be Brought Alive to Washington. Rare Birds and Reptiles Also Sought in Quest Which Penetrates the Heart of African Wilds.

UNDER the auspices of the Smithsonian Institution of Washington, preparations have just been completed for the greatest expedition for the capture of wild animals known in the zoological history of this country. The Smithsonian expedition of 1909, headed by former President Theodore Roosevelt, was devoted to collecting specimens of wild animals for museum purposes. The object of the new quest is to collect only living animals, birds and reptiles for zoo exhibition and scientific purposes.

The Smithsonian-Chrysler Expedition, as this scientific adventure is known, is being financed by Walter P. Chrysler, prominent automobile manufacturer. It will be headed by Dr. William M. Mann, director of the National Zoological Park at Washington, who brought the urgent need of the Park for new specimens to Mr. Chrysler's attention, and induced him to provide the necessary funds.

Dr. Mann's story was emphasized by the disappointment of the thousands of children, visitors to the park, who were not able to find a single giraffe there. Upon the return of Dr. Mann's party there will be several giraffes quartered in the park together with hundreds of specimens of the largest and smallest of African wild animal life, including fully one hundred specimens never before seen alive in this country.

Cooperating with the Smithsonian Institution are the Museum of Comparative Zoology at Harvard University, the Museum of Zoology of the University of Michigan, the Zoological Society of London, and the Pathe News, which will make a pictorial record of the activities of the expedition and its ark-full of living animals.

Tanganyika—Land of Wild Animals

Dr. Mann and his party of scientists and animal men are heading for Dar-es-Salaam, the seaport for the Tanganyika territory of British East Africa.

At Dar-es-Salaam, the Smithsonian-Chrysler Expedition will be met by hundreds of the best native animal hunters of the Wasalamu tribe —descendants of the full-blooded Africans who prospered and grew rich in the old African slave trade — Morogoro, Wakamis, Wagogo, and other tribes that know this vast territory of Tanganyika, its animals, and how to capture them.

Near Dar-es-Salaam, a permanent camp will be established not too remote from the railroad, where the model cages, already built by the National Zoo at Washington, will be set up and duplicated by the native carpenters and the automobiles and the army of porters made ready for the expedition, which will start for the interior of this wild country made famous by the early explorations of Livingstone and Sir Henry Stanley.

Many subsidiary expeditions will be sent out, each commanded by members of the Smithsonian-Chrysler Expedition, and manned with the necessary number of practical animal men from the Washington Zoo, and groups of the best hunting natives from the particular wildernesses to be penetrated.

By means of these parties, each part of the Tanganyika territory will be thoroughly combed for the particular kind of animals this expedition expects to bring back to the National Zoo.

Personnel of the Expedition

In addition to Dr. Mann and the National Zoological Park animal men and the native chiefs and their hunters this Smithsonian-Chrysler Expedition numbers among its members Albert J. Loveridge, of the Museum of Comparative Zoology of Harvard University, who for eight years was assistant game warden in the Tanganyika territory, and who personally knows the chiefs of the various tribes to be employed as hunters. Dr. Loveridge is already at Dar-es-Salaam, making the necessary advance preparations.

Stephen Haves, naturalist, artist and author, Charles Charlton, Pathe Moving Picture man, and other well known scientific men are also members of the expedition.

Dr. Mann, the director, is one of the best qualified individuals in the country for such an expedition. Not only is he a scientist of recognized standing, but he has had nearly every kind of field experience in almost every part of the world on similar scientific expeditions.

He is a graduate of Stanford University and has the degree of Doctor of Science from Harvard. He was given the Sheldon Traveling Fellowship at Harvard and visited the Solomon and Fiji Islands, Australia and New Zealand, collecting specimens and data. Another of his expeditions was to Brazil for Stanford University.

Dr. Mann has been on scientific expeditions to Cuba, Haiti, Mexico, Colombia and other parts of Central and South America. In 1914 he went to Egypt and the Sudan, the Sinai Peninsula, Palestine and Arabia with Dr. John C. Phillips, collecting specimens of animals and birds. Later he was in charge of the Mulford Expedition to the Amazon Valley in South America to collect and study plants. His most recent work in the field has been for the Department of Agriculture, which sent him during the last five or six years into many countries, including Mexico, Colombia and Spain, on entomological expeditions. Dr. Mann is an accomplished linguist, speaking besides the European languages, Arabic, Swahili, and the dialects of the Fiji tribes.

Various Species Protected

In discussing the object of the Smithsonian-Chrysler Expedition, Dr. Mann said: "We intend to gather a representative collection of live African animals, birds, and reptiles for the National Zoological Park. The African fauna is meagerly represented in the Zoo, and Tanganyika has been selected as the most attractive region of all Africa for the securing of quantities of special species of the more important game animals."

"There are about forty species of protected game in Tanganyika Territory and of course a host of other animals that are not protected. Among the most desirable species to collect are the giraffe, no specimens of which have ever been exhibited in the National Zoo, the black two-horned rhinoceros (only one poor specimen of which has ever been in our collection) and the white rhinoceros. A quantity of antelope, including the sable antelope, the fringe-eared oryx, the topi, the hartebeest, the bushbuck, the kudu, various reedbuck, duikers, pygmy antelope, impalla, oribi, as well as other antelopes and gazelles. The zebra is common in that country, but there is at present no specimen of zebra in the National Zoo."

Rare Monkey Sought

"Among the monkeys the Colobus or Guereza, which exist in the colony and are protected by the game authorities, has never been exhibited in the Zoo, and it is expected to collect specimens of this as well as the rarer Sykes monkey.

"In addition to these protected animals, the expedition will attempt to capture lions, new blood of which is badly needed in the Park; leopards, hunting dogs (seldom seen in captivity), various forms of wild hogs; the curious aardvark, and wolves, hyenas, and numerous species of the cats including the rarer caracul, the hunting leopard, and the carval.

"Returning to antelope, the eland, the finest of African game animals, is represented in the Zoo only by an aged cow, remaining from a pair presented to the Park by the Duke of Bedford. This species of animal has been successfully propagated in England, and it is hoped to establish a breeding herd in the Park.

"Birds to be sought will include varieties of parrots and parakeets, the giant ground hornbill, the fish eagle, the secretary bird (snake killer), and the brilliant plantain eaters, sun birds, and a selection of the various species of vultures. It is hoped that a large collection of the smaller brilliant colored finches and tailor-birds can be secured, including the paradise whydah, whose body is scarcely larger than a canary, but whose tail is eight or ten inches long.

"There is almost no limit as to what may be found. There is the curious armor plated pangolin, the little potto lemur, various squirrels, the hyrax (the coney of the Bible), smaller than a rabbit, yet the closest relation to the elephant; flying mice, elephant shrews, many kinds of monkeys and the civet cat.

AFRICAN BUFFALO

WARTHOG

"Among the reptiles are half a dozen species of tortoises including the giant leopard tortoise, which grows to a weight of nearly one hundred pounds, giant pythons, spitting cobras, puff adders, black mambas, boomslangs, the monitor lizard (which ravages the nests of crocodiles and eats their eggs) and various common forms of chameleons.

To Make Box Traps

"Box traps will be made. A drive will be undertaken where hundreds of natives will herd young animals in a stockade. To collect the savage rhinoceros, it may be necessary to locate a mother with young. Wherever possible, we shall avoid killing, as this is distinctly a live animal expedition and not a big game hunting one. Such animals as it may be necessary to kill on a trip of this kind will be preserved. When the commoner game, especially antelopes, are shot, the meat will be used as food for the expedition and food for the carnivorous animals which have been captured.

In all cases the skins and skulls of these will be preserved as scientific specimens.

"The expedition must guard against malaria (jungle fever), amoebic dysentery, typhoid, the dreaded sleeping sickness, as well as the various sores and ulcers and the terrible flies which are so prevalent in the tropics. The lions and the leopards in some parts are so abundant that the Government office gives a reward for each one killed. There are a dozen reptiles whose bite is almost certain death. There are also scorpions six inches long, and centipedes up to a foot. Tsetse flies, ticks by the billions, and germ-carrying mosquitoes, abound.

"Our expedition will go in more for quality than quantity, and we hope to bring back the finest specimens possible of the species.

"As all members of the party are field naturalists, it is expected that great quantities of scientific material will be brought out, including, of course, many hitherto unknown species, especially among the smaller animals."

It is an interesting fact that the National Zoo was founded by Professor Samuel Pierpont Langley, third Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, who is chiefly known today for his fundamental researches and experiments in aviation,—experiments which pointed the way to modern world-wide flying. In the late eighties Professor Langley realized the educational advantages that would result from having a collection of living animals accessible to the student and as an incentive to study for the younger generation. He, therefore, created in the Smithsonian Institution a Department of Living Animals.

These animals were housed in small enclosures erected in the rear of the present Smithsonian building on The Mall. The collection grew rapidly in numbers both by donations and purchase. The care of these animals became such a burden upon the limited funds of the Institution, which depends upon a meager income of $65,000 a year from private endowments, that Professor Langley appealed to Congress to take over the embryo zoo. It is curious that a few members of Congress opposed the plan on the ground that if the Federal Government was going into the "show business" in competition with "the greatest show on earth," it should make it a traveling show.

He Hits the High Spots

Here is Lieutenant John A. Macready and his wife just after he completed his flight at McCook Field, Dayton, O., which is believed to set a new altitude record for airplanes. Examination of the instruments on the plane indicate this fearless pilot reached an altitude of 41,000 feet or nearly 2000 feet higher than the mark set by a French aviator, but this figure may be changed by the official calibrations. At one time during the flight the temperature was 78 degrees below zero.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

(Editor's Note—The following communication by R. A. Rodesch on tomorrow's school election was received Thursday, but was crowded out of last evening's Telegraph through lack of space. Therefore, in fairness to Mr. Rodesch, it is published this evening, and is not in violation of the Telegraph's rule that no eleventh hour arguments shall appear on the day before an election.)

FROM R. A. RODESCH.

Regarding the township high school there are many things to be considered. First: Can the taxpayers stand the strain? Taxes are now over 300 per cent higher than they were ten years ago. This proposed new school building, will, at a most conservative estimate, double the school tax rate, which will make our total taxes almost 400 per cent higher than ten years ago, or even seven or eight years ago. This will come about as close to confining property of tax payers as it is possible to get without actually doing it.

In most of the articles sponsored by the school board and published in The Telegraph the figures and statements made are misleading and incomplete. The truth half told, is as misleading as an outright falsehood, and any question raised by the school board to the correct tax rate for school purposes in Rock Falls, being anything but $6.54 on the assessed valuation of each $100 is absolutely misrepresentation. The tax rate sheet is used by the county treasurer of Whiteside county proved this, as will the tax receipts held by taxpayers.

If the school board in Dixon would adopt a definite business policy in the conduct of the school business, like any successful business concern does, and in that policy arrange for new buildings, etc., in advance (and let the taxpayers know what they are doing from time to time) there would not be any trouble about Dixon having as fine school buildings and school systems as any other city in Illinois. No business can succeed without an adopted business policy that is carried out year after year without change every time a new director or two is elected.

As conditions now are in Dixon there is really only one way to remedy the situation and do justice to all concerned, and that is for the school board to arrange to build one or two new grade schools at cost of $25,000 or $30,000 each, or even a little more if need be, and thus relieve the present high school of its congestion. Then the present high school building, with some minor improvements will provide sufficient room to take care of all high school pupils for the next five or six years. In the meantime the school board can adopt a business policy as suggested above and a new high school can be built when needed without materially increasing taxes.

Some say, "Oh, our school buildings are all out of date, etc." While this is partially true, the reason for it lies in the fact that the school boards in the past have never had any business policy, and the taxpayers should not now be called on to make this good "all at once." The mistake has been made and it will take time to work out of it correctly.

If our school system is put on a basis as outlined above, the pupils will then have better schools and schooling than their parents ever had, and this should be sufficient until the tax situation is such that better can be had without making it a burden on the person who "pay the bills."

Furthermore: If such a policy as herein outlined is adopted and lived up to, by our school board, practically every farmer within a radius of five or six miles in all directions from Dixon will only be too glad to join us, when the time arrives, and make our school system a community affair, with all sharing in the expense of both building and operating our schools.

Such a policy as above outlined was recommended by Prof. Helronemus a year or so ago when he spoke at a meeting held in the high school building. His advice was the best to be had then, and applies more forcibly now as conditions have not improved. Let's follow it.

Respectfully submitted, R. A. RODESCH.

THESE WOMEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Two women are deeply in love with HARRY MORTON, who is wealthy, attractive, middle-aged and married. One is AUDREY, his 19-year-old ward. The other is NONA, a New York girl.

Morton, whose past is unknown to the gossips of Rochester, has lived there for 15 years, maintaining also an expensive apartment in New York, which he visits weekly, taking Audrey with him.

Nona comes to his apartment to ask forgiveness for a jealous attack she has made on him, and the two girls meet. Audrey declares her love for Morton, and asks him to marry her. He evades the question, and hires JOHN PARRISH to be his secretary, instructing him to be a companion to Audrey. She detects his purpose. Trying another expedient, he orders Parrish to take $5000 to Nona, and instruct her to buy a single piece of jewelry with it. Parrish refuses to go.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XI

IT was a real crisis in the relations of Morton and his newly engaged secretary.

Boylike, Parrish expressed his own determination by clenched fists, and flushed, tense face. Morton, the man of the world, sure of himself and of his moral mastery of the situation, sat looking at Parrish as he might have looked upon an interesting child.

He waved his hand toward a chair. "Sit down," he ordered. Parrish slowly obeyed.

"Now," Morton continued, "will you tell me exactly why you won't do as I tell you?"

The young man shifted in his seat. Finally, his eyes fixed upon the floor, his feet twisted together, and his hands in nervous motion upon the arms of the chair, he answered.

"I've heard about your reputation," he blurted.

Morton smiled. "What have you heard?" he inquired.

Parrish considered. "Well, I know what your reputation is. They say that you have lots of women on the string, and that you run around with them to places where you oughtn't to go, and—and—well, everybody says that you're a roue."

"And," said Morton, gently, "just what has that to do with your refusing to go on my errand?"

Parrish looked up, evidently surprised. "Why," he said, staring at Morton, "you are sending me on an immoral errand. You're sending me with money to buy jewels for a woman."

Morton leaned forward across his desk. "Does it occur to you," he asked, "that you are displaying yourself as an insufferable young prig?"

Parrish reddened.

"Do you know what a prig is?" Morton persisted.

Parrish did not answer.

"A prig," Morton continued, "is a nuisance to boot. As you get older, you'll find that you have enough to do to look after your own morals without sitting in judgment on the morals of others."

Just look what your idea is. Here an employer who told you to take a check to a given address, and deliver a message. You don't know whether the woman you are to meet is a good woman or not. You know nothing about her. In your self-righteousness, you decide that the errand is a bad one. Therefore, you won't do it. Parrish!

He spoke the name suddenly, and the young man started. "Sir?" he said.

"Have you dirty spots in your mind?" Morton's tone was coldly incisive, and his eyes seemed to be boring into the young man before him.

Parrish was confused. "No sir, I don't think so," he said. "I'm quite sure not."

Morton pointed his forefinger at him. "Young man, people who are accustomed to think evil of others usually have a good deal of concealed evil in their own minds."

Arising, he walked to the window and stood there a few moments, his hands thrust deep in his trousers pockets. After a silence, he turned and resumed:

"Are you going to do my errand?" Parrish slowly got up, reached for the check and for the penciled memorandum that his employer had written a few minutes before, and silently left the room.

Morton watched him go, and then, with a short laugh, resumed his seat and began dictating letters.

When Morton, with Audrey and Parrish arrived at Rochester the next morning, it was raining. The clouds seemed to hang at the level of the house-tops, and the air was chill.

"Daddy, let's walk in the rain," Audrey proposed.

Morton nodded. Turning to the chauffeur, he told him to take their baggage to the house, and asked Parrish if he, too, wanted to walk.

"I have your brief-case," Parrish said, "and there are some things I want to look at in it. I'd better ride."

His eyes were on Audrey while he spoke, as if waiting for her to ask him to come.

He took some papers from a drawer, and passed them to her. She lifted the folded documents, shuffling them in her hands, and looked at him inquiringly.

"You haven't known it," he said, "but since your eighteenth birthday you have really been independent of me."

"But I don't want to be independent of you," she said promptly.

He laughed. "But this is a practical matter—a financial affair. Those papers that you have in your hand mean this, briefly—you are a rich woman. I have turned over to you in cash, and bonds, one-half of everything that I own—or used to own."

He looked at her inquiringly. She smiled, laid down the papers, came around the edge of the desk, and kissed him warmly.

"Thank you, daddy," she said. "But I don't want it. I don't want to have you give me all that. You've given me everything as it is, and want you to have all the money."

He shook his head, as he patted her fondly on the cheek.

"But, my child, there are certain practical things in life. There must come a time when you dislike me terribly."

She tried to seal his mouth with her hand, but he held her wrist, and went on: "Whether that time comes or not—whether you like me, or don't like me—it is a good thing for you to have your own money, and to be able to do exactly what you want."

"There is an account in the bank in your name. It is enough to take you around the world, if you want to do that. There's a safe-deposit box, also in your name. It has in it railroad and government bonds, which you can turn into cash any time you want to. These bonds have coupons on them and the interest on all those coupons belongs to you. They are yielding you a large income. You can turn the bonds into cash at any moment you desire. Here's the key to the box."

Rummaging in the desk again, he produced a key, and gave it to her. She took it, and looked at it speculatively.

"I have no duplicate of the key," Morton went on. "That's your safe-deposit box, and everything in it is yours. Do exactly as you please with it, always."

She dimpled. "Can I buy new im-

Pick of the Talent Announced by Radio Stations Throughout the United States

EVEREADY HOUR OLDEST FEATURE ... BROADCASTING

Is Veteran of All in Regular and Continuous Service

The "Eveready Hour" is the oldest regular feature broadcasting today.

A recent survey of the whole field of radio entertainment features revealed the fact that the "Eveready Hour" is the "veteran" of them all, in point of regular and continuous service.

This weekly program first went on the air on December 4, 1923. From that time on, without exception, each week has had its "Eveready Hour," through Station WEAH, and since early in 1924, a gradually extending network of stations scattered throughout the East and Middle West. There are contemporary broadcast features, which began just about the same time as the "Eveready Hour," but none of these others has had an unbroken run.

The "Eveready Hour" is, in its earliest days, however, was not the same type of broadcast program that it is today. It began, like most other features, as a program of more or less miscellaneous numbers. Slightly less than a year after its debut it launched its present type of program which has come to be known as the "continuity" radio program—a sort of radio scenario which tells a story with a combination of music and the spoken word. The first of these "continuity" programs was broadcast on the evening of November 10, 1924, on the eve of Armistice Day and the story was that of America's part in the World War.

JUST WHAT?

Neither Sam nor Rastus could tell time. But Sam had a nice big watch, which he exhibited with a fine air of superiority.

"What time am I?" asked Rastus. Sam hesitated and then extended the timepiece. "Dar she am."

Rastus looked at it carefully and then said: "Damn if she ain't"—Bison.
